THOMAS ASKS DOMINIONS TO LEND ALL AID

Predicts Ottawa Conference Will Be Turning Point in Imperial Policy

EXPECTS BRITAIN'S LEAD TO PAVE WAY

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—"Do not let us go to Ottawa in a haggling spirit, but let us go and see what we can throw in the common pool for the benefit of all," was the appeal made by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The House in committee was discussing the Government's new tariff bill, and the minister reproached Major H. L. Nathan, Free Trade Liberal and secretary of the Cobden Club, for the terms of an amendment which he moved.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Major Nathan's amendment would provide that the 10 per cent imperial preference should only be given to the Dominions, India and Southern Rhodesia provided they admitted goods of the United Kingdom free of duty. The Government bill exempts Empire produce from the general 10 per cent duty until after the Imperial Conference.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Thomas said it was an insult to suggest the Dominions should be treated the same way as foreign countries. It was out of the question to ask the Dominions to disregard their own industries, he declared.

The Secretary for the Dominions continued to criticize the amendment until Major Nathan arose and denied that he had insulted the Dominions. He was thinking of Britain first, he said.

MAY BE TURNING POINT

Outside those associated with Major Nathan's amendment, Mr. Thomas replied, everyone looked forward to the Ottawa conference as perhaps the turning point in Imperial policy. Nobody would minimize the difficulties, but if everyone believed in the conference as vital to the future of the Empire, they should surely do everything possible to create a good atmosphere.

"Will anyone deny," the minister asked, "that the Government, in the sacrifice they have made, are doing all they can?" He was prepared to admit that some of the Dominions had not done so well, but that was no reason why, when

Sale of Canadian Tomatoes Goes Up

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—British imports of Canadian canned and bottled tomatoes increased from 728 hundredweight in 1927 to 5,966 hundredweight in 1931, declared Malcolm MacDonald, Under-Secretary for the Dominions, today in the House of Commons. The Empire Marketing Board, he added, will continue to do everything in its power to encourage the sale of these and similar products of home and Empire origin.

ACTION SETS PRECEDENT

Member Denied Right to Introduce Bill in Federal House

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—The House of Commons set a precedent today when it refused permission to a member to introduce a bill. Government supporters combined to outvote, 72 to 49, Liberals and other groups on a motion to permit J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North-Centre, to introduce a bill to amend the Criminal Code. It was said to be the first time that a member had been denied the right to propose legislation on the floor of the House.

The Winnipeg Laborite sought to amend the famous Section 98 of the Code, dealing with unlawful assemblies. The House since 1926 has passed a similar bill on five different occasions, but each time it met defeat in the Senate.

FRAYED TEMPERS EVIDENT

Frayed tempers were in evidence throughout the incident. It was punctuated with interjections flung across the floor, points of order and acrimonious remarks. At one stage Premier R. B. Bennett opposed granting Mr. Woodsworth the opportunity to explain his bill. This brought protests from Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. leader; Ernest Lapointe, who was leading the Liberals at the time, and cries of "Mussolini" from private members of the Opposition side.

When Mr. Speaker George Black put the formal motion, "Shall leave be granted" for the introduction of the Woodsworth bill, Premier Bennett gave an emphatic "No." The reply was echoed by the Government supporters, and before the Laborite had an opportunity to explain his bill, division bells were ringing.

Says Trade Treaty Is Successful

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22.—The new Canadian-Australian trade treaty is working successfully. It has stimulated trade both ways in spite of depressed conditions, and its effects will be really felt and appreciated when conditions return to something more like normal.

Such was the declaration of L. R. MacGregor, Australian Trade Commissioner to Canada, here from his headquarters in Toronto, on one of his periodical visits.

"Canadians are buying Australia's products in increasing quantity, particularly raisins, currants, wines and dried fruits.

"Australia is buying more and more, in fact a very large proportion of her imports, of Canadian softwood lumber, canned salmon and paper products," Mr. MacGregor said.

WILL SIMPLIFY VOTERS' LISTS

Monthly Revision and Retention of Absentee Ballot Proposed

Provision for current review of provincial voters' lists by way of a court of revision to sit on the third Monday of each month, instead of once a year as now; retention of the absentee system of voting, but stricter rules governing its use, and removal of many obsolescent phases of the existing law, are contained in a bill to amend the Provincial Elections Act, introduced for first reading in the Legislature yesterday by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe.

Instead of an annual court of revision on the voters' list, the amendment would set up a system of month to month review, where courts would sit once a month and receive all applications dealing with registration or deletion. New names could be added after thirty days posting of notice, and objections entertained after twenty-one days' notice. The voters' list under this system would be continuously under supervision and inoperative names would be removed.

The provisions in the bill comprise recommendations made to the Government by P. N. Walker, deputy provincial secretary, and British Columbia registrars, after practical observation of the existing system over many years. They will tend, it was explained, to a general simplification of the process of registration, both for the voter and for the custodians of the records.

TELLING THE DECEASED

Under the existing law, a deceased person must actually be written to "by registered mail" to acquaint him of the fact that his name is to be removed from the list by reason of death. This, it is proposed, will be changed to automatic removal at the monthly revisions on reasonable and adequate proof of death in each case.

The bill would give the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council power to cancel voters' lists at any time, this to remove old lists that through death and transfers have become largely inoperative. The voters' list would also be compiled alphabetically, though also split into polling divisions for the purpose of elections. Transfer of voters from one area to another, now a double-barrelled process, would be simplified. Another clause would make ink-marked ballots void.

The absentee ballot remains unchanged, save that the affidavit accompanying it must be properly signed, or the ballot would be void. The bill received first reading.

SEEK CURTAILMENT OF WOOD PULP DUTY

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—Curtailment of the duty on wood by pulp and paper companies on Crown lands is being urged by the Canadian Pulpwood Association, and a petition has been sent to the Provincial Governments of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, recommending immediate action by these Governments, it was stated at headquarters of the association yesterday.

EQUANIMITY MAINTAINED

Britain Not Upset by News of Valera's Success at Polls

By NEOLEY FARSON

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CDN).—Certainty that the Republican leader, Eamon de Valera, will head the Irish Free State Government is accepted in British circles with unexpected equanimity. The chief reason for this is that the Irish Republicans must become realists in office like their predecessors under the pressure of responsibility.

The second reason is that the Irish Labor party, although weakened and divided, is expected still to be able to hold the balance of power, and, while Labor is against William T. Cosgrave, president, and willing to support Mr. de Valera's economic policy, it is believed to be doubtful about the wisdom of abolishing the oath of allegiance to the King or of withholding the land annuities, and is definitely against any tinkering with the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

NEED LABOR SUPPORT

Out of a total of 1,216,000 first preference votes, only 538,000 were cast for the Fianna Fail, which, it is believed, cannot claim the mandate unless it is supported by seven Labor members with their 93,000 votes.

But with two Labor members lost before the dissolution of the Dail, expelled for supporting President Cosgrave's measures against gunmen, and T. J. O'Connell, one of Labor's shrewdest leaders, lost in the present election, there is a certain anxious expectancy here as to whether Labor will be able to stand up against determined De Valera pressure placing the whole responsibility on them for the retention of the oath and continuation of payments to England of nearly £3,000,000 in land annuities.

ANOTHER ELECTION SEEN

As Mr. de Valera needs both of these to bring him prestige and hard cash, it is believed that Mr. de Valera's effort to push Labor in that direction will result in what is the third, and perhaps the strongest, reason for the British taking the Irish election results so tranquilly—that within another few months there will be another general Irish election.

Empire Fiscal System May Be Discussed

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—Rt. Hon. Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India, was asked in the House of Commons this afternoon whether he proposed to raise at the Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa the general question of the attitude of the Government of India to an Imperial fiscal system.

The Minister said the matter was being considered both in London and India, but he was not yet able to make a statement. The Indian Empire would be fully represented at the conference, he added.

City Will Investigate Price of Gas and Milk

Prices of milk and gasoline will be the subjects of a special investigation by the business and trade development committee of the City Council by virtue of a resolution passed at the meeting of the City Council last night at the request of Alderman W. D. Todd, chairman of the committee.

Alderman Todd's resolution dealt with the prices of gasoline sold to the retailers in Victoria and Vancouver, but Alderman R. T. Williams intimated that the price of fish should also be investigated, which, in turn, caused Alderman John A. Worthington to remark that milk was sold for ten cents a quart in Vancouver and fifteen cents in Victoria. He asked why. The council agreed to include milk with the gasoline, but declined to have the committee study the fish question.

"I find on inquiry from the Provincial Department of Revenue that the city of Victoria in 1930 consumed 4,500,000 gallons of gasoline, while the remainder of the Saanich Peninsula consumed an additional 500,000, making a total of 5,000,000 gallons in all. We paid one cent more for these 5,000,000 gallons, or $50,000 more than Vancouver did for the same amount. The reason given for the charge of the extra cent per gallon is the cost for transportation from Vancouver to Victoria," said Alderman Todd.

WARN FLYERS TO KEEP OUT OF WAR ZONE

Canadian Airmen Return Unsuccessful in Attempt to Serve Chinese

HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM SNIPERS' FIRE

Two Vancouver aviators in whose ears still linger the whining impact of snipers' bullets, fired in what they think was a deliberate attempt to shoot them down in the streets of Shanghai, returned home Monday on the liner Empress of Asia after a luckless 4,000-mile journey to offer their services as instructors to the Chinese Air Force.

Bullets that flattened against a wall beside them on a Sunday afternoon were attributed to Chinese Reds by the flyers, Gordon C. Bulger and Charles Doyle.

"It was right in the International Settlement," said Bulger. "We were going down a street and we saw a lot of Chinese running. Then a bullet spattered against the wall behind us. We ducked into a doorway and when it seemed safe came out again. But almost immediately another bullet bounced off the wall and we started to go away from there."

COMMUNIST PLAN

Doyle, who declared the first shot passed within four or five inches, said he was convinced the bullets came from Communists attempting to embroil Western powers in the Shanghai hostilities by shooting foreigners.

"Three days after the fighting began," said Doyle, "I went along to Chapei to take some photographs. Just five blocks from the Astor House Hotel I saw six Chinese coming down a lane. Some Japanese marines advanced toward them and shot and bayoneted the lot.

"These slain men were soldiers and one expects that in wartime," declared Doyle, "but I saw other things I did not expect or want to see. I saw children with their arms shot off. I saw children whose eyes

THREE REPORTS MADE ON PEACE

British Columbia Not Concerned in Survey Mentioned in Parliament

Three reports have been made on the question of a Peace River outlet to the Pacific Coast, it was made clear yesterday by Premier Tolmie, who stressed the fact that British Columbia was not officially represented in the report recently presented in the House of Commons, Ottawa, which was made by a committee of engineers acting for the two transcontinental railways.

The first survey was that undertaken by the Province of British Columbia, in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Canadian National Railways, to ascertain the resources of the Peace district, and parts of Northern British Columbia tributary to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway route. The survey showed vast resources in this area, the details of which were recently placed in the hands of the respective parties to the search. This survey was headed by Major C. R. Crysdale for the Province.

A second survey was undertaken in the Peace area, this being made by the engineers of the Canadian Pacific Railway, as a private report made at the cost of that railway and presented to it on completion by its own engineers, the Premier continued.

B.C. NOT A PARTY

The third inquiry, that in respect of which a report has been presented to the House of Commons, Ottawa, was undertaken by a committee appointed by the two transcanada railways, and composed of one engineer for the Canadian Pacific Railway and one for the Canadian National. Major C. R. Crysdale was third man on this survey, which was addressed to the location of possible passes through the mountains in connection with any future Pacific outlet for the Peace area.

Major Crysdale was appointed from Ottawa independently of any action of the Provincial Government, and British Columbia was not represented officially on this occasion, Premier Tolmie made clear.

BAYONETS AND BULLETS KEEPING JAPANESE BACK

Casualties Heavy in Hand-to-Hand Fighting in Front of Chinese Trenches—Japanese Artillery's Attempts to Blast Way Through Are Vain—Headquarters in Confusion

Tokio Made Anxious by News From the Front

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press)

TOKIO, Feb. 23.—The Japanese Cabinet was expected to order more troops sent to Shanghai today to reinforce those pitted there against Chinese soldiers. The Cabinet considered a recommendation of the country's military leaders that the troops be sent. Its approval was virtually assured, as was the sanction of Emperor Hirohito. Manoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, and Vice-Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of Japan's navy in the Chinese city, emphasized the gravity of the Shanghai situation in messages to the Foreign and Navy Offices last night.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23 (AP).—Japanese soldiers lunged against Chinese bayonets and bullets dealing death over the entire Kiangwan-Chapei front today in a far-flung attempt to complete a surrounding movement and starve out the handful of defenders still stationed in the blasted ruins of Kiangwan village. The Chinese air force suffered a heavy loss when eight Japanese aeroplanes destroyed the airdrome at Hungjao, five miles west of Shanghai, with a rain of twenty-five bombs. All hangars and planes within were consumed by fire that broke out with the bombs' explosion.

Repulsed in every onslaught they have made on the centre of the Chinese line at Kiangwan, the Japanese flung their full strength at the Chinese positions on both sides of the village. They launched vicious attacks—one to the northwest and the other to the south—just as dawn broke. Soon the battle had developed into a major engagement over the entire line north of Shanghai.

ADMIT SEVERE CASUALTIES

The Japanese admitted they were suffering severe casualties, after having lost at least twenty killed and forty wounded during the night's fighting. The battle raged from Chapei northward to Kiangwan and northwestward through the village of Mo Hang Chen, two miles beyond Kiangwan.

From the Japanese lines a barrage of artillery cut the way for the infantry advance, while aeroplanes showered explosives on the entrenched Chinese. The Japanese soldiers crept forward behind smoke screens drawn across their route to protect them against the vigilant eyes of the Chinese gunners.

The Japanese were clearly on the offensive, seeking to clear the Chinese away from the positions in front, but made slow headway against the smashing Chinese fire. They pushed forward foot by foot, dodging from grave mound to grave mound in the face of the constant spurt of Chinese bullets.

The Chinese defenders held off the oncoming Japanese infantry with a searing rifle and machine gun fire, backed up by a bombardment from trench mortars and occasional bursts of artillery.

Although the action was general, the heaviest fighting occurred in the northwest sector of the Kiangwan line, where the Japanese concentrated their blows to break the Chinese defences.

Their efforts, however, met the severest Chinese opposition. Much of the fighting was hand-to-hand. The Japanese, attempting to rush the Chinese trenches, were cut down by the defenders' bayonets. A look over the area northwest of Kiangwan revealed many Japanese dead not yet picked up.

The scene along the northern sector, behind the Japanese lines, was one of utter desolation. Every building had been burned to the

Wheat Quota Bill To Be Introduced In Commons Today

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—Sir John Gilmour, Minister of Agriculture, tonight announced he would introduce the Government's long-awaited Wheat Quota Bill in the House of Commons tomorrow. Publication of the complete text of the bill, however, was not expected before Wednesday.

INUKAI WINS JAPAN'S VOTE

Government Is Returned by Much Larger Majority Than Was Expected

TOKIO, Feb. 22 (AP).—The old grey fox of Japanese politics, Suyoshi Inukai, rode tonight on an avalanche of victory as final returns from Saturday's election vindicated his "prosperity" campaign and gave him 301 seats in the House of Representatives.

The continuation of Premier Inukai's Seiyukai party in power was a usual procedure in Japanese elections, but his margin of majority, 136 seats, was unexpected, despite the Seiyukai boast they would capture 300 seats.

In the final returns tonight the Minseito opposition had 149 seats, the Proletarians five and other parties eleven, giving the seventy-six-year-old Prime Minister 130 more seats than he held in the old Diet, which was dissolved January 21.

The Japanese electorate placed the reins of government in the hands of a party which has consistently advocated a stronger and more definite policy toward China and the Soviets. The party's main strength came from the rural districts. It prided itself on its so-called "positive policy," including greater extravagance in public expenditure. On coming into power in December the party reimposed a gold embargo and generally favored a policy of inflation.

The Minseito, while more liberal in its general outlook than its big rival, found its main support in urban districts and rigidly upheld the gold standard. It was accused of being weak-kneed in its foreign policy, especially toward China and to a certain extent toward Russia.

NAZI LEADER TO SEEK ELECTION

Adolf Hitler Will Be Candidate for Presidency of Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 22 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's Fascist Nazis, will be the presidential candidate of his National Socialist party in the coming election, a party meeting was told tonight by his lieutenant, Joseph Goebels.

His aide's announcement, made to a gathering of the fiery Fascist's followers in the Sports Palace, set the political party alignments for the campaign in clear-cut array.

President Paul von Hindenburg, as a result, is faced with three opposition candidates in his campaign for re-election.

The certain runners in the race against the veteran of the war, who is the incumbent, are Hitler, Ernst Thaelmann, Communist nominee, and Theodore Duesterberg, the Nationalist candidate, who is vice-president of the "steel helmet" organization of war veterans.

ALBERTA HOUSE VOTES DOWN RESOLUTION TO CUT NUMBER OF SEATS

EDMONTON, Feb. 22.—Voting down a resolution by Hugh C. Farthing, Conservative, Calgary, to reduce the number of members of Legislature from sixty-three to not more than forty-five, the Government showed on Monday that the House membership will stand as at present for another year at least. The result also carried with it rejection of any change in the present system of voting in this province.

The motion was supported by seven Conservatives and two Independents. Opposed were ten Liberals, thirty-three Government and four Labor, a total of forty-seven.

Garment Workers Go Back to Jobs

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—Agreeing to accept a 10 per cent wage reduction, 1,700 workers in the garment trades on Saturday paved the way towards resumption of their jobs this morning.

The workers went on strike on Thursday. On Saturday the question was put to a vote and the majority decided to accept the reduction until such time as conditions in the trade improved.

Debate Terminated By Legislature and Business Is Started

British Columbia Film Quota Plan Is Explained by Attorney-General Pooley—Nine Bills, Chiefly Amendments, Advanced Before House

NINE bills were dealt with by the Legislature in twenty minutes yesterday afternoon, one introduced for first reading, four receiving second reading after brief explanations, debates on three being adjourned at the request of the Opposition, and one measure being stood over on motion from the Government benches. The British Columbia British film quota bill, by way of amendment to the Motion Pictures Act, and amendments offered to the Provincial Election Act occupied the limelight.

On the film quota bill, Attorney-General Pooley explained that it was proposed to take authority for provision by Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council at any time of regulations which would require the showing of a definite percentage of British pictures in British Columbia theatres. The Government, he said, did not propose to fix a set quota in the bill, as done in Ontario, but would take power to do so by regulation by order-in-council.

FOSTER EMPIRE FILMS

The motives for the bill were well understood by all, Mr. Pooley declared. There was some reason to hope that film production would be started in Western Canada in the course of time, and in that event the use of a quota might be found necessary. The situation at present was that certain distributors controlled nearly all of the output of films in actual use in theatres in this country, and could retard development of Empire production without some such protection.

Ontario, continued the Attorney-General, had placed a definite quota in its act (believed to be seven and a half per cent for British films), but the British Columbia proposals were that the quota be fixed as required, and at any level deemed necessary from time to time.

The Leader of the Opposition adjourned debate on the quota bill, which was up for second reading.

Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., spoke

DEBATE ON GOLD STANDARD BITTER

South African House Passes Motion to Establish Select Committee of Inquiry

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 22 (CP).—After one of the longest and most bitter parliamentary fights in the history of the union, the South African House of Assembly today adopted a proposal to establish a select committee to inquire into the question of the gold standard. The vote was 76 to 60.

By the terms of the motion, introduced by Prime Minister J. B. Hertzog on January 27, the select committee will inquire "how far and to what extent the maintenance of the gold standard is in the interests and welfare of the union, and whether and to what extent departure from the gold standard would affect the interests and welfare of the country."

The Opposition, which has strenuously campaigned for abandonment of the gold standard ever since Great Britain suspended it last September, asserted the Prime Minister was endeavoring to escape from "an awkward financial position" by throwing the onus upon Parliament as a whole.

Forts at Woosung Reminded Officer Of Western Front

Shelled by Ships and Bombed by Planes, Little Is Left but Machine Gun Nests and Fort Hotel

"REMINDED me of the Western Front," stated an officer of the Canadian Pacific liner Ss. Empress of Asia, which docked here yesterday from Orient ports, when asked about conditions in the vicinity of Shanghai, where the ship touched on February 6 and 7, as the Japanese were busy shelling Chapei and Woosung from the river.

"Everything at the latter place was shattered, except the Fort Hotel, which stands in the very middle of the area, the Union Jack floating above it.

"The proprietor of the Fort Hotel, now more than eighty years of age, was formerly a commander in the British Navy, and while all his Chinese help left him some time ago, he refuses to leave although efforts have been made by the British Consul at Shanghai to get him away from the spot, saying that 'The flag which has protected me here for forty years will undoubtedly continue to do so for some time longer.'

"Ex-Commander Davis, the hotel proprietor, had some interesting things to tell about the shelling and bombing of Woosung. He exhibited a diary, or 'log,' which he had been keeping ever since he quit the sea, the last entry disclosing that it had been a 'cloudy day. Moderate sea. This morning at 8 o'clock the Japanese bombarded the fort. Shells dropped close to the hotel. Chinese still resisting.'

FLAG WILL FLY

"The old sailor will probably have to leave his hotel to the mercy of shot and shell, as he will be starved out, having no way of getting food, but he will leave the flag flying, he stated, when he is forced to retire.

"The ship passed in to Shanghai on the evening of February 6. We counted fifty-nine

REVOLT REPORTED IN ANKUO STATE

Two Thousand Chinese Troops Said to Be Marching Against Kirin Province Governor

TOKIO, Feb. 22.—The War Office was informed today that a revolt has broken out against the new Manchurian state, which is to be formally inaugurated on March 1 with Henry Pu-Yi, former boy-emperor of China, at its head.

Information from Mukden was that two thousand Chinese troops, former followers of General Ting Chao, were marching on Imienpo. This movement was directed at Hai Hsia, Governor of Kirin Province and one of the leaders who formed the new state.

According to Mukden dispatches, the rebels had seized Wukimiho, about twelve miles northwest of Imienpo, an important station about ninety miles from Harbin.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 22 (AP).—Public buildings in Changchun were being prepared today to house the Government of the state of Ankuo, "Land of Peace," which will be installed March 1, under Japanese auspices, to administer Manchuria and part of Mongolia.

LEGISLATURE SETS RECORD

Customary Two-Week Debate Cut Short in Few Hours, by Consent

British Columbia's Legislature set a new record yesterday, when it closed debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne after two hours and seven minutes of elapsed time, one hour and ten minutes of which was occupied by the mover and seconder of the Address. Usually the debate takes between one and two weeks, but by common consent this year the privilege of speaking was waived, and only one member, Tom Uphill (Labor), Fernie, contributed to the actual debate.

The Address in Reply was moved by Dr. R. W. Alward (Conservative), Fort George, in a speech of fifty-five minutes. It was seconded by Capt. M. F. Macintosh (Conservative), The Islands, in a concise address under fifteen minutes. T. D. Pattullo, Leader of the Opposition, waived all contribution from the Liberal bloc; Premier Tolmie, replying in kind, waived debate on the Government side, and Mr. Uphill took the House into his confidence in an address yesterday lasting fifty-two minutes.

The member for Fernie stated his constituency had been hard hit by unemployment, and would require further help than what it had already received. The sum of $160,000 had been allocated for works in Fernie, the city raising $60,000 by by-law, and $100,000 being agreed to by the Dominion and Provincial Governments combined.

Mr. Uphill said he had forecast last year that unemployment would not suddenly cease, and renewed the same prediction in respect to 1932. The expenditure of $80,000,000 in Canada on relief measures had not touched the root of the trouble, he believed, and a more permanent and lasting remedy would have to be devised. The member for Fernie made a characteristic address, largely on unemployment relief matters.

The House passed on to new business at 4:05 p.m., and was adjourned at 4:33 p.m., after half a dozen new bills had been advanced a stage.

THOMAS URGES DOMINIONS TO LEND ALL AID

Britain was setting the example, it should be 'crabbed' by amendments or speeches like Major Nathan's.

IS LEADING THE WAY

"We have already shown our hands," Mr. Thomas said. "I don't wish to disguise the view that I expect and believe the Dominions will respond. We will put all our cards on the table. No Dominion can possibly complain that in the first import duties imposed and at every stage the Government has not taken the view it will do all possible to help encourage and foster the Imperial spirit.

"Now it is up to the Dominions themselves to respond. It will be our duty to point out the needs of our trade and present a full case."

The amendment was subsequently rejected without a division.

Major Gwilym Lloyd George, another Free Trade Liberal, argued that where foreign countries treated Great Britain better than the Dominions did, Britain should allow their goods to enter on the same terms as Dominion goods.

WILL LOSE NO CHANCE

The Government's policy was to lose no chance of doing business, whether with the Dominions or foreign countries, Mr. Thomas stated. But the Government believed that granting the preferences to the Dominions was the first necessary step.

"We cannot complain of the Dominions' policy of 'Canada First' or 'Australia First,' but we can say to them at Ottawa: 'It's no use talking about a preference so high that nobody can climb over it,'" the minister continued.

In giving these preferences with the deliberate intention of creating the atmosphere necessary for success, the Government would not be unmindful of their obligations to their own countrymen, nor of their duty to world trade.

ICE INDUSTRY SALES GAINING

Luxury Becomes Necessity and Output Increases, Say Convention Delegates

"In competition with mechanical competitors, the ice industry has shown an increase of 6 per cent each year for the past twelve years," Leslie C. Smith, of Chicago, secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries, declared in an interview at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The industry," he said, "was one of five $1,000,000,000 industries which showed an increase in business in 1931 over 1930." This was particularly gratifying for two reasons, he stated. It revealed a spreading of the season of ice usage and the obtaining of new customers.

The convention of ice industry leaders now in session here would devote much of its attention to the increase of the useage season and the widening of the field of users. There was still a big potential market to explore, Mr. Smith declared. On this continent there were 28,000,000 families which did not use ice refrigerators.

VALUABLE ASSET

More and more was ice becoming recognized as a valuable asset for the comfort cooling of theatres, clubs and large auditoriums. Such cooling systems not only made theatres more comfortable to sit in during warm weather, but also purified the air, the ice literally washing the impurities from the atmosphere, he said.

Dwight A. Ward, president of the Ward Refrigerator & Manufacturing Company, of Los Angeles, in an interview, said that the public was coming to a greater realization that ice was a necessity and not a luxury. Nondehydrating of foods was one of the chief features of ice refrigeration, he asserted, and it was because of this and the improvement in the type of refrigerators now being manufactured that people were realizing their utilitarian value.

HOUSE APPROVES TARIFF ON WOOL

Resolution Calls for Duty That Would Reasonably Protect Canadian Growers

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—The House of Commons favors a duty on raw wool entering Canada. Climaxing a day-long debate, a resolution was passed tonight, seventy-seven to thirty-two, calling for a tariff "that would reasonably protect the Canadian wool growers."

Conservatives as a whole voted for the resolution. It found a measure of support also from other parties and groups. F. G. Sanderson, Perth South, and Dr. F. W. Gershaw, Medicine Hat, two Liberals, endorsed it, disregarding the dominant party voice. Three members of the "Ginger Group," William Irvine, Wetaskiwin; Michael Luchkovitch, Vegreville, and D. M. Kennedy, Peace River, supported the proposal for a duty. A. W. Neill, Independent from Comox-Alberni, also voted for it.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes said the Government would accept it "not as a direction but as an expression of approval of the (protectionist) principle." Hon. Robert Weir said he favored a duty, not only on raw wool, but on all other forms of wool entering Canada.

BRITAIN NOT YET DECADENT

Dr. J. Wesley Bready Is Profoundly Reassuring Concerning Its Welfare

"If the prophets of gloom who are so willing to write Britain's epitaph are correct in saying that England has shot her bolt and will no longer be a great power, how are they going to answer the fact that Britain at this hour holds two of the three speed records of the world; that she is still the greatest importing and exporting country in the world; that her ships are carrying more than the United States' and Germany's ships combined; that she is still, despite the fact that she is off the gold standard, the financial centre of the world and gaining constantly in financial prestige; and that she has, in many instance, won back markets filched from her during the war?"

These and other questions with the same answer implied were asked by Dr. J. Wesley Bready, author, lecturer, social welfare student and scholar, in the course of the stirring address which he gave before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel. His theme, "Where Now Stands England?" was treated partly from the material standpoint by a citation of Britain's resources; and partly by the consideration of her resources in respect of national character, evidenced by the way in which she had come through the anxious crises of the last eighteen years.

CANADIAN OBSERVER

Repeatedly Dr. Bready noted that he spoke as a Canadian who had observed these traits first hand in the Old Land during a ten years' residence.

He went to England under the impression that it was a country of lords and butlers; a slow, easy-going England, to which he could teach something about the quicker methods used here. On the contrary, he had found that England could teach him a thousandfold more.

Critics of Britain's monarchial form of government sometimes forgot that the substance of government was more important than its form, and that in this respect the British monarchial form was one of the most contradictory in existence.

ALL WALKS OPEN

A country's democracy might be gauged by the degree to which all people from the humblest to the highest, had access to that country's most coveted honors. To demonstrate that Britain was among the great democracies, the speaker cited the humble birth of Lloyd George, Ramsay MacDonald, the comparable humbie ancestry of Baldwin, Sir Herbert Samuel, Arthur Henderson and others. Instances were also given to demonstrate how pre-eminently the creed of personal liberty and scope for self-expression had their opportunity in England. Hyde Park's soap-box orators were an outstanding instance of the measure of liberty which was allowed. Dr. Bready maintaining that Britain's political intuition had suggested to her the possibility of some seed of truth falling amidst the much chaff which would be spoken there.

"A long political experience has bred this tolerance. It is a great tribute to the people of Britain that at this time of great national crisis all parties have been able to combine forces and form a great Nationalist Government," thought the speaker. A fine heroic spirit underlay the Englishman's traditional motto, founded on her great national game of cricket, to "Play up and play the game."

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, vice-president, presided. The soloist was Nahdin Young, an eleven-year-old flautist, who gave a delightful performance of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and "Minstrel Boy."

ground. Smoking embers dotted the countryside. The terrain was blasted unmercifully by aeroplane bombs and artillery shells. Numerous grave mounds, which rise here and there over every Chinese countryside, had been blown open. Scattered throughout the area were large numbers of both Chinese and Japanese dead.

Towards the rear of the Japanese positions, soldiers were seen about the smoking ruins of some Chinese houses attempting to cook food over the embers. The scene of the desolation was a vivid example of war's destruction.

ENTIRE LINE ACTIVE

While the heaviest fighting went on to the northwest of Kiangwan, the entire line continued active. Troops south of Kiangwan kept up a steady fire. The Japanese artillery sought to blast a way through the Chinese positions, which still held.

With the clearing of the atmosphere, the Japanese aerial attack became more intense. The air fleet was increased from six to eleven bombing planes, helping direct the artillery fire. Down Chapel way things appeared to be quieter after a splash of shelling at daylight. But the fires that sprang up from the exploding shells continued to ravage that old battlefield of the present warfare where there was anything left to burn.

A Japanese lieutenant, who last night participated in the rush of infantry attempting to take the Chinese trenches northwest of Kiangwan, related today how the Japanese had charged, but were forced to retreat in the face of staunch Chinese opposition. He said his company charged through the darkness, but suffered heavy casualties as the Chinese waited with their bayonets over the parapets against the oncoming Japanese. His captain fell in the charge, the Japanese said, and part of his command fell back. They left most of the company dead or dying in front of the Chinese trenches.

HEADQUARTERS' CONFUSION

Field headquarters of Lieut.-General Kenkichi Uyeda, Japanese commander, was hurriedly established in a small frame building and a couple of tents. There was an atmosphere of confusion about the headquarters. Officers, tired and unshaven, continued to work through long hours of duty. General Uyeda, seemingly tireless, carried on.

A number of horses were tied to a hitch rack before the general's door, while Red Cross units, field guns and other miscellaneous equipment, stood uncovered roundabout.

The Japanese carried out their raid on the Chinese airdrome in fear that Chinese flyers were preparing to take the air for a battle with the enemy planes. The Chinese removed all their planes a few days ago, but some apparently had flown back and the indication of activity brought down the Japanese annihilation.

The airdrome was internationally known owing to the numerous foreign flyers having landed there on various flights to the Orient. It was there that the Americans, William Brock and Edward F. Schlee; the British aviatrix, Mrs. Victor Bruce; the German, Baron Ehrenfried Gunther von Huenfeld, of transatlantic flight fame, and others landed on visits to Shanghai.

FURIOUS OFFENSIVE

The Japanese used tanks, armored cars, infantry, aeroplanes and field artillery in their furious offensive today. The base for this operation was in the Klangwan race track and golf course, where weather-beaten signs, put there to keep hunters away, warned in English and Chinese:

"No shooting allowed."

ANXIOUS OVER NEWS

TOKIO, Feb. 22 (AP).—Bad news from Shanghai gave rise tonight to considerable anxiety in authoritative civilian circles. Press dispatches told of stubborn resistance by the Chinese army and said the Japanese offensive was meeting some reverses.

Despite these dispatches, Government officials declared there was no plan to send additional reinforcements. The War Office, remaining outwardly calm, said there was no confirmation of the reported reverses, and pointed out that the Japanese advance would necessarily be slow, as the Shanghai terrain is cut by numerous canals, which make quick progress difficult.

Government officials interpreted the news from Shanghai as indicating the advance of Lieut.-General Kenkichi Uyeda was proceeding "according to schedule."

It was said that it probably would take a week or ten days to drive the Chinese back from the twelve-mile zone around Shanghai. Government officials, taking it for granted that the zone eventually would be cleared, asserted the Japanese army would occupy it defensively until the situation warranted withdrawal or until a temporary neutral area was decided upon.

NO REINFORCEMENTS

The War Office reported receiving word from General Uyeda that he would be able to gain his objectives with the troops now at other quarters in his command. It was said that it would be impossible to get reinforcements in the field in time to affect the outcome of the present engagement.

No Cabinet meeting was held today, but War Minister Araki conferred with high military officials at the War Office. A War Office spokesman said General Chiang Kai-Shek's National Guardsmen were not assisting the 19th Chinese Route Army in the defence of Shanghai. The 19th, the spokesman declared, was practically isolated, and a breach had occurred between the Nanking Government and the Cantonese faction. The 19th is from Canton.

EDITOR MAKES CHARGES

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22 (AP).—Charges that Japanese soldiers were killing defenceless Chinese peasants behind the lines at Kiangwan were printed today in the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post-Mercury. The accusations were in an article under the signature of T. O. Thackrey, managing editor of the paper, who said that he went to the Kiangwan International Race Club without being seen by the Japanese and there looked on while Japanese officers killed Chinese men, women and children.

were just blind and bleeding sockets as a result of shellfire. I saw women with bayonet wounds on their bodies. It was terrible to see the bloody stream of humanity pouring from Chapei into the International Settlement."

A reported offer of their services to China by eighty flyers struck off the Canadian Air Force brought a warning from Bulger and Doyle, who had sat on the roof of the Y.M.C.A. in Shanghai and watched the first Japanese bombing attack.

HAS LOTS OF PLANES

"The Japanese airmen are just fair flyers," they agreed, "but Japan has lots of planes and lots of flyers."

Doyle and Bulger, with three other Canadians, went to Shanghai in December after, they say, they had been assured by Vancouver Chinese authorities they would be hired as instructors.

"But the Government had disappeared," Bulger said, "and no one could give us a contract or had any money anyway. They would like to have foreign pilots because they know they are good, but they can't pay them $600 a month gold because they haven't got it.

ROMANCE BORN AMID THE DUST

Dr. J. Wesley Bready Met Wife Among Tomes of British Museum

One does not often think of sentimental romance in the same breath as the British Museum. But occasionally romance does flourish amidst the dusty tomes and solemn historical relics, as a Colonist reporter discovered in the course of an interview yesterday with Dr. J. Wesley Bready, M.A., B.D., Ph.D. A Canadian engaged in research work in the museum library, he there met Miss Ruth Flack, a student at King's College, London University, whom he married eighteen months later, and who is now traveling across Canada with him on the lecture tour which brought him to Victoria yesterday to address the Women's Canadian Club.

DR. J. WESLEY BREADY

The romance began one Spring day in 1926. He was completing his work on Sir Josiah Stamp and, according to his daily custom for many months, had carried to his accustomed seat in the great rotunda an enormous pile of reference works. To his chagrin he found the table occupied. The only available seat was at a small table already occupied by a young woman who was deeply immersed in her reading.

MRS. WESLEY BREADY

For three days they worked side by side without speaking, she evidently quite absorbed in her subject, but he, with growing interest, trying to invent some incident which would give him excuse for speaking to the attractive student. To make a long story short, he devised the plan of stacking his books together so precariously that a slight jolt sufficed to send them pell-mell amongst the lady's. Apologies and a lame introduction followed, then an invitation to discuss their studies over a cup of tea in the museum tearoom. Actually they decided in favor of some less musty and solemn rendezvous, and in the course of the next eighteen months visited every tearoom within a mile radius, although they were engaged long before the list was exhausted.

Dr. Norwood married them at the City Temple, London, and a great friend of Dr. Bready's, A. G. Sleep, entertained more than one hundred guests in their honor at the wedding reception which followed, among those present being Sir Josiah Stamp himself, the indirect cause of their meeting.

to amendments proposed to the Vital Statistics Act. The minister without portfolio said it had been found that hundreds of false affidavits as to the birth in this province of Japanese who were not born here had been lodged under the existing measure, under its deferred registration clauses. Two men were now in jail for this offence, and much abuse had come through the keen desire by the Japanese to secure birth certificates as a means to fishing licences. There was no power in the existing act to cancel certificates, and generally the whole measure required revision to correct flaws, he concluded. Debate was adjourned by the Opposition.

Amendments to the Provincial Elections Act were introduced by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, and the measure received first reading, being explained elsewhere in this issue.

WOULD SIMPLIFY LAW

Mr. Pooley piloted amendments to the Woodmen's Lien for Wages Act, stating the purpose of the bill to be to cut down the number of places where liens could be registered, and so simplify search on titles. It was proposed, he said, to use machinery as applied in the Bills of Sale Act, by naming specified registration points in each county.

A. M. Manson (Liberal), Omineca, said the measure was a move in the right direction, and would have applied the same curtailment of registration points to the Bills of Sale Act, to simplify titles to chattel properties. The bill was read a second time.

Minor amendments to the Legal Professions Act, to give greater facility of internal regulation to barristers in the disposition of their own corporate affairs, also secured second reading. Mr. Pooley explained the changes as designed to permit of annual meetings to be held in the province where members of bar associations could gather and discuss their problems, and other minor variations only of interest to the profession.

OTHER MEASURES

The Opposition adjourned debate on proposed amendments to the Fire Marshals' Act, to accord to the deputy fire marshal the same protection the law now gives to the fire marshal, for acts done in the course of duty. The leader of the Opposition asked for further information as to retroactive provisions in the bill.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie stood over debate on the bill to facilitate the discovery and working of placer mines, the new measure under which free miners' rights would be extended to discoverers and workers of small claims, to encourage prospecting.

Hon. J. W. Jones introduced the usual resolutions as to the committee on supply, and the committee on ways and means, which pave the way for the eventual introduction of the budget. The move is a formal one, and means little in itself, save that the budget can be introduced at any time without further notice. The actual advent of the budget, the highlight of the session, is not expected this week, and it may not come down for many days yet.

The House rose for the day shortly after 3:30 p.m., to sit at 3 p.m. today.

BRIGHOUSE, Feb. 22.—Nineteen milch cows were burned to death when the barn of G. H. Francis, on Francis Road here, was totally destroyed by fire at 11:45 p.m. Saturday. A large quantity of hay and straw was also lost.

SAANICH POWER IS QUESTIONED

Victoria Chamber to Investigate Licence Collection From City Merchants

The right of an adjoining municipality, like Saanich, to collect a business licence from a firm doing business in the city of Victoria and delivering goods sold in the city within the adjoining municipality, will be investigated by the legislative committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The subject came before the directors of the chamber at yesterday's luncheon meeting in a letter from A. S. Denny, who said that his firm had been called upon to pay a licence in Saanich.

The objection of Mr. Denny was that there was no selling done by his company in Saanich. The only relation established was that of delivering to residents of Saanich goods which had been bought in the store in Victoria. He pointed out that if such a system were possible to be carried out, there might be all kinds of complications with a whole series of licences being charged business houses.

REGARDED AS SERIOUS

President R. W. Mayhew felt the matter was a serious one and should be investigated.

Captain George McGregor pointed out that the powers given Saanich were only the same as those given all other municipalities in the province, and if it were possible for Saanich to collect in this way, other municipalities could do likewise.

Reeve Hayward did not believe that under the act, Mr. Denny's firm would be classified as doing business within Saanich.

Rev. Montague Bruce was afraid that there might be discrimination against residents of Saanich if this practice were carried to the extreme.

The legislative committee will be asked to report on the matter without delay.

MISSIONARY TO VISIT VICTORIA

Miss Daisy Kingdon Has Done Much Work Among Natives in Africa

Miss Daisy Kingdon, the first Canadian missionary to take up work in the heart of Africa, who is making a tour of Canada in the interests of the Heart of Africa Mission, will be in Victoria on March 5 and is expected to remain here for about nine days. Miss Kingdon has just completed three months' work in England and on finishing her Canadian tour will return to continue her efforts in Africa.

During her work in Africa, Miss Kingdon was in close touch with the late C. Studd, a well-known missionary worker. She worked for a long time in the village of Adzangwe, noted cannibal chief, who later became a Christian and is now a native worker.

Miss Muriel Harman, of Victoria, is a particular friend and co-worker of Miss Kingdon and at the present time is with the same mission, working among lepers and wild pygmies around Naia, in Africa.

It is anticipated that there will be a great demand for speaking engagements for Miss Kingdon and these may be arranged with Rev. A. deB. Owen, at Empire 2962.

Mrs. M. Whipple, of Staines, England, has just given birth to twins for the third time.

Russians Lead Figures for Naturalization Permits in Past Year

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—A total of 21,392 persons became naturalized Canadian citizens during the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1931, according to the report of the State Department tabled in the House of Commons today. Of these the largest individual nation group was from Russia, with 4,069. Certificates issued numbered 10,897, covering the whole number of naturalizations and embracing the names of wives and minor children.

During the year twenty-seven certificates of naturalization were revoked.

Most of the nationalities of the world were represented in the 20,000 new Canadians, Central Europe figuring very largely in the lists. Poles were second to Russians, with 2,522. The third largest national group was comprised of Americans, of whom 2,339 were naturalized.

Others were: Italians, 2,067; Austrians, 2,008; Serbians, 929; Germans, 743, and Norwegians, 669.

NEW RECREATION ROOM HIGHLY APPRECIATED BY UNEMPLOYED OF CITY

The reading and recreation room for unemployed, opened in the former telephone office at Fort and Langley Streets a week last Monday, is now in full swing. More than 100 men are using the rooms daily, and many expressions of appreciation are heard from the men. There is a general room for games and reading, a quiet reading room, also a small room for letter writing. The general conduct of the men is excellent, and the rooms are being kept clean. The public has donated furnishings and reading material. A piano has been loaned, also a gramophone.

The committee is anxious to secure work for the men, and anyone who has odd jobs to do in the garden, or around the house, if they will phone the secretary, Empire 6932, a man will be sent to do the work.

Contributions are also needed if this work is to be continued. Funds now in hand will pay expenses for about six weeks. Donations may be sent to the treasurer, R. F. Taylor, 117 Belmont Bldg., or to the secretary at the rooms.

'PAY YOUR BILLS' MONTH PROPOSED

Chamber of Commerce Refers Suggestion to Retail Merchants' Group for Early Report

A "pay your bills" month has been suggested to the Chamber of Commerce directors, who in turn have referred the matter to the retail merchants group for an early report as to what that organization thinks of the plan. The proposal came through the medium of a letter sent by R. H. B. Ker to the directors of the chamber at their meeting yesterday.

Mr. Ker pointed out that if there was a move on the part of those who were in a position to pay their bills, to do so, there would be a vast amount of money set in circulation and many bills would be settled. He suggested that the chamber sponsor the move, naming April as the month for carrying it into effect.

The matter could be well advertised, Mr. Ker suggested, and it could be made a real blessing in the city.

SUGGESTS MOVIE STUDIO IN CITY

Major F. Smith Tells Gyros Victoria Best Place in British Empire for Pictures

Suggesting that American film interests, particularly in New York, are planning the establishment of skeleton picture studios in the Dominion for purposes detrimental to Canada, Major Fairbanks Smith, speaking at the Gyro luncheon yesterday at noon, urged immediate consideration of the location of a Canadian film studio in Canada, preferably in Victoria, for the making of talking pictures.

Major Smith was speaking of the conditions in the motion picture world in America and other countries and offered considerable criticism of the efforts of England. He said that at Elstree, the home of British motion pictures, there was a lack of "Hollywood experience" and left the impression there was no executives in the Old Country capable of managing or directing picture productions, and went so far as to say the best thing that could happen there would be "to have a good fire when all fire departments were busy elsewhere." He said that in France the industry was "corrupt." In Germany they had the best cameramen in the world, and in order to get into an executive position in Hollywood one had to be an "-in-law," he had been told.

GIVES REVIEW

Major Smith gave a review of his life's history in the motion picture business in Hollywood, and said he had constructed the new R.K.O. studio there at a cost of $6,250,000, about $750,000 below the estimated cost and eight months earlier than the contract called for. He maintained that after his experience at Hollywood and other parts of the world he had come to the conclusion that Victoria was the ideal spot for the making of motion pictures.

"I tell you candidly that Victoria is the one spot in the whole of the British Empire where a studio should be built. There is not one business here that would not benefit by it. I am going to have a conference with the Mayor and City Council and I have already spent some hours with your Attorney-General, who is putting through the kind of bill we have been looking for, the film quota bill," Major Smith declared.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE LADY AND THE PLAY

Those who have read my writings on contract bridge know that I have frequently stated that the average woman bridge player plays better than her husband. This is not only true as to the average, but in many cases women qualify in the expert class. The hand below gave an opportunity for a lady in Ann Arbor, Michigan, to disclose her ability to correctly execute that extremely rare play, the grand coup. The hand and bidding was:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♠	Pass	5◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

It might be remarked in passing that perhaps the bidding disclosed the weakness of the sex in succumbing to the lure of diamonds when there was a safe game in spades and particularly is this true in view of the fact that had East not been in such a hurry to cash the two aces, the contract could have been defeated. However, human nature is human nature and I myself with less reason have found the caress of such a diamond suit impossible to resist.

As the hand was played, the ace of clubs was first led and then the ace of hearts. East then continued the club suit and North won with the king and laid down the ace of diamonds, only to receive the unpleasant news that all five adverse diamonds were held by West. It is apparent that unless the hand can be developed to produce a grand coup, West must make a trump trick. So the king of spades was led, overtaken by the ace and then the nine of diamonds led from the dummy. West did not cover and North played a small diamond. Now the king of hearts was led and trumped in the North hand. The dummy was re-entered by leading the three of spades to the ten, the queen of hearts led and the knave of clubs discarded in the closed hand. The knave of hearts was then led and West was helpless. He could have discarded or trumped, but it is immaterial. In the actual play he discarded his remaining spade. North also discarded her remaining spade. On the eleventh trick South led the queen of clubs. West was forced to trump and North overtrumped with the ten and picked up the knave and eight with the remaining high trumps.

The contract could have been defeated by correct defensive play. East should have led the ace of clubs and west should have played the seven to the first trick. East should then have continued with the club suit and when he regained the lead with the heart ace, as he necessarily must before North has an opportunity to execute the coup, East should have led another round of clubs, giving West the opportunity to trump and defeat the contract.

TO INTERPRET WEST TO EAST

Major F. J. Ney Speaks Highly of Visiting Orator, Abdullah Yusuf Ali

Major F. J. Ney, M.C., F.R.G.S., executive secretary of the National Council of Education of Canada, is in the city and will remain over for the address which is to be given under the auspices of that organization this evening by Abdullah Yusuf Ali.

Major Ney says that the speaker, who is now brought by the National Council, is one of the most outstanding orators among a very distinguished group which his organization has brought to Canada. He is able to interpret India as few others can. He belongs to the class of East Indians upon whom falls the responsibility of interpreting the Occident to the Orient.

The gathering of the National Council of Education, which was to have been held this year in Toronto, has been cancelled, says the executive secretary. Conditions this year did not make the holding of such a gathering likely to be attended with the success that it should have been, and so it has been decided to cancel it.

Major Ney is touring the West for the purpose of organizing for the year the Overseas Education League with its European tours and educational advantages. There is, he says, a satisfactory response being made on the part of many teachers throughout the country, and a very fair number may be expected to take the trips with the advantages of studying in various lines under the most favorable conditions. This will be the seventeenth annual visit of Canadian teachers to Great Britain and France.

URGE MERIT SYSTEM IN CIVIL SERVICE

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—Support of the "merit system" as opposed to any scheme of patronage in the civil service is contained in a letter addressed to Members of Parliament by the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada. The letter is signed by A. Baker, Vancouver, president, and Fred Knowles, Ottawa, secretary.

The letter urges opposition to the Gagnon Bill which would remove employes in the outside services from the scope of the Civil Service Act. It declares the "Civil Service Act is far superior—with its merit system—to any spoils system."

BIND WATCHMAN AND RIFLE SAFE

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22.—Three men broke into Con Jones' Brunswick poolroom, East Hastings, at 2:30 a.m. today, bound and gagged the Chinese watchman, and escaped with $552 from the safe.

The crime was discovered when a second Chinese, relieving Sing Tun Him, the watchman, found the latter in an exhausted condition in a small office on the street floor.

Sing had been at work on the second floor of the building when he had occasion to go to the basement. There the trio, which had gained an entrance through an open coal chute, awaited him. One of them produced a gun, and the other two bound his wrists and ankles and placed a paper gag in his mouth.

A hole was punched through the safe door with a crowbar, and wire snips were used to make a hole big enough to extract the cash box. The door of the safe was not removed

TO APPEAL FROM JUDGE'S RULING

The decision of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald dismissing an application of habeas corpus with certiorari made by C. H. O'Halloran, on behalf of Suc Sun Poy, Chinese, will be taken to the Appeal Court of British Columbia, it was stated by Mr. O'Halloran, following the hearing of the application in Supreme Court yesterday. The grounds for appeal are mainly those set out in the application for habeas corpus.

Sue Sun Poy is held by the Canadian immigration authorities here for deportation to China and will remain in custody, or under bail, until the decision of the Appeal Court.

The deportation order was made by the Inspector of Immigration under a section of the Narcotics Act. W. C. Moresby, K.C., representing the Dominion authorities, opposed the application yesterday.

W. H. Wall, Formerly Prominent in Vancouver Island Mining, Dies in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22 (CP).—British Columbia lost another of her pioneer residents late Sunday night in the death of William Henry Wall, aged seventy-four, at his home on Harwood Street.

Sixty-eight years ago the deceased landed at Victoria. The voyage from his native town of Staffordshire, England, in the square-rigger Knight Bruce, extended over a period of six months.

In the early days he went to Nanaimo, where he became mechanical superintendent of the new Vancouver Coal Company which was later purchased by the Western Fuel Company. Later he went to Cumberland, where he became manager of one of the coal mines there. Of recent years he had been employed as a diamond driller for the Greater Vancouver Water Board.

He was a member of the Native Sons of British Columbia, the Institute of Mining Engineers of Canada and the Independent Order of Foresters of Nanaimo. He was also a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen for fifty years.

MEDICAL SOCIALISM

The apostles of Socialism rest not by day or by night in their advocacy of ways to put new burdens on the backs of the taxpayers. It is nothing to them that economic depression is swaddled and dandled in the nursery of governmental paternalism. They subscribe gladly and enthusiastically to the doctrine that it is better for the State to do for people what the individual finds it difficult to do for himself. They would, by Socialism, remove the incentive and desire to struggle against the slings and arrows of fortune. They are the iconoclasts of these qualities known as will and determination.

The forces of theoretical propaganda have rallied to the support of State Health Insurance in this province. A professor of the University of British Columbia, "who has been absent from his duties at the Point Grey institution for two years making investigations on the subject," has prepared a report on health conditions in Canada. As a result of that survey, made under the auspices of the Canadian Nurses Association and the Canadian Medical Association, State Health Insurance is advocated. The recommendations go even further. They favor socialization of the nursing staff. That report says: "There is growing dissatisfaction throughout Canada with the high cost of health service." It makes no comment on the fact that whatever is governmentally-owned and controlled invariably costs more than when conducted by private interests, and invariably, as well, when in the hands of the State, services which people should perform for themselves are made subservient to party political interests.

State Health Insurance has meant increased sickness, either imaginary or otherwise. Medical statistics tend to prove that sickness is on the decline; if it were not then the legitimate claims of advancement in the science of medicine would go for naught. In Britain, however, where State Health Insurance is in force, sickness benefit claims of married women have risen between 1921 and 1927 by 106 per cent and the disablement benefit claims by 159 per cent. In 1921 fourteen men in every thousand claimed sickness benefit; in 1927 the number had risen to twenty-three. There are, in fact, ever-growing sickness claims. There is even a definite movement whereby workmen, rather than work on short time, "go sick" in order to secure the certainty of benefit. For some slight ailment they draw the benefit far longer than is necessary. This process is not peculiar to Britain. In Germany in 1929 the increase in sick claims was 70 per cent over 1924.

It is significant of the process of "wangling" developing under State Health Insurance that a Government actuary in Britain has discovered "that of all claimants who passed from sickness benefit to disablement benefit in 1927 and ceased to draw benefit before the end of the year, more than one in six went off the funds almost immediately the benefit was reduced to the disablement rate. Within a month of the reduction 50 per cent had been certified as capable of work and within eight weeks 70 per cent had found their working capacity restored." The conclusion that cannot be ignored is that sickness benefit is regarded as a dole which can be drawn under a variety of pretexts. There are not ironbound provisions that could be included in any State Health Insurance scheme which would preclude the possibility of those who are not sick pretending to ill health in order to secure the sickness benefit.

Apart from the abuse of the system, its adoption at any time would indubitably mean an increase in taxation. There has never been any Socialistic scheme of the character adopted by any Government anywhere in which the taxpayers have not had to face new burdens. Were the nursing service socialized thousands more than now enter that profession would demand the training were it conducted under the State and at the expense of the exchequer. In fact equal opportunity would have to be given to all if the service were socialized, and the result would be a surplusage of nurses throughout the Dominion just as there is a surplusage of teachers. It is not pleasant to contemplate the possibility of such a condition. The supporters of Medical Socialism are well intentioned and enthusiastic but not all-embracing in their views. Like the other exponents of having the State become the universal provider, irrespective of the moral and mental instability that is the inevitable result, they are:

"Confiding though confounded; hoping on,
Untaught by trial, unconvinced by proof,
And ever looking for the never seen."

TORONTO AND THE DRAMA

Toronto, for a long time past, has prided itself on being the dramatic art centre of the Dominion. There is one critic there who does not believe the claim is justified, and he has said so in straight-flung language in a column he has contributed to The Toronto Mail and Empire. "In the field of the experimental theatre," he says, "Toronto has never gone beyond the bounds of high school dramatics." As to the commercial theatre, his claim is that Toronto seems "particularly fortunate" in the amount of tenth-rate and ancient theatrical fodder that can be successfully merchandized within the city's limits. He says there isn't a dramatic critic in Toronto, with the possible exception of Mr. Hector Charlesworth, who knows anything about the theatre. He goes further and claims there is no one in the town in a position to discuss the drama intelligently in the papers. All this is why, he says, "the populace exhibit such peculiar tastes in their theatre-going." Then he says:

"The whole approach to the theatre in Toronto is anaemic, wishy-washy and prudish. To ask that from such an atmosphere one should produce the super-realist plays that New York demands, or the alive, alert shows of the mystery or crook type, is to ask for night club hostesses from a nunnery, or demand croupiers from a squad of Sunday school superintendents. In proportion that these are available, so are plays for New York from this military district. To borrow a trivet from the Buick assembly line: 'When better plays are produced, Toronto won't produce them.'"

JAPAN AND CHINA

Whatever may be the reaction in the public mind to the Japanese campaign on the Shanghai front no one who is correctly informed of the facts of the situation can deny that China has brought her present troubles on herself. Japan has made it clear that the drastic action she is taking is to prove to China that Chinese mobs cannot kill Japanese subjects and destroy Japanese property with impunity. The Chinese courts and the international courts have seemingly failed to render justice, so Japan has become the judge and jury where her own rights are involved. If the punishment seems disproportionate to the crimes committed, it must always be remembered that China was offered a way whereby such extensive bloodshed could have been avoided. It is inconceivable that, under the circumstances, other nations should spend millions in defending the right of the Chinese to become an offence among the peoples of the earth in their treatment of the nationals of the Powers who dwell in their midst and carry on their lawful occasions as best they may.

MRS. ALICE THOMSON

An earnest worker in the cause of the Connaught Seamen's Institute has gone in the death of Mrs. Alice Thomson. Despite her great age she retained her enthusiasm to the end and was ever active in aiding the cause of seamen whether of the merchant marine or of the Navy. Not only had she been president of the Connaught Seamen's Institute for a number of years, but she was also a valued member and honorary regent of the Navy League Chapter of the I.O.D.E. Interest in naval matters was indeed inherited, for she was the daughter of a naval officer, and that interest was both whole-souled and steadily maintained in everything affecting the welfare of those who ply their trade or calling on the sea. Mrs. Thomson had made herself widely known in the city where she has lived for the past twenty years. Very deep sympathy will go out to her sons and daughters.

NO OVER-POPULATION

The plain evidence of facts disputes most of the theories advanced about over-population. The decrees of an all-wise and all-powerful Providence are the final arbiter in a matter of this character. Sir Arthur Keith says the claim is put forward that England is overcrowded. He asks, "If we were to reduce our population by two millions, would every one be then employed?" He answers his own question by saying that this would only be the case if the two millions removed were unemployable. Fifty years ago he recalls that the people of a city in Scotland were aghast when its population numbered 50,000. The population has now doubled and there are fewer unemployed in that city than when its population was half what it is today.

Sir Arthur says that as that city stands to Scotland, England stands to the rest of the world. "As long," he says, "as we are willing to do a full day's work and have confidence in each other and maintain a growing population, we are still on the ascent of our wave of national life."

THE PSYCHIATRY FAD

Considering what psychiatry has done in the courts in the last few days, one hesitates to contemplate the future of the temples of Justice as the glands go on parade in the courtroom.—Buffalo Courier Express.

There is no worse species of usury than an unjust way of making bargains, where equity is disregarded on both sides. All bargains, in which the one party strives to make gain by the loss of the other, are here condemned.—John Calvin.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Alas! that Voice is heard no more
In temple or on lea,
Nor where the way leads by the shore
Of storied Galilee;
Wasted the Holy Places lie,
No mystic sign comes from the sky.

But round about us are the things
His gilded with His touch;
The flower that blooms—the bird that sings,
The children—"For of such
The Kingdom is." He said. The earth
Still owns the hand that gave it birth.

Still, as in parable, they speak,
As He spake long ago;
And they that hear, and they that seek
In gladness or in woe—
Haply in them may yet rejoice
To hear the echoes of His Voice.

Readers no doubt will note that the verses quoted above are somewhat different in matter and tone from those which are printed from day to day at the top of this column. The verses quoted were printed at the end of an editorial in the Sunday edition of The Vancouver Province, and we have taken the liberty of reprinting them because the hand which wrote them was cold in death more than a week before they appeared in print and was the hand of an old friend. The voice to us therefore was as the voice of one speaking from beyond the vale. It was the voice of Mr. Bernard McEvoy, who for about seventy years had been writing things for the newspapers, and in whom the journalistic instinct had become so strong that it persisted almost until the hour when death came knocking at the door.

We have not read very much of late about wage slaves and the tyranny of industrial taskmasters, probably because under late conditions the iron hand of despotism has been somewhat relaxed. We have never read very much about the most exacting and the most unrelenting of all forms of servitude, that imposed upon members of the journalistic profession. Almost all other callings or professions have their occasional days or weeks of ease. In the industrial realm there are occasions when production may be suspended for a time in order that demand may overtake supply, but in the business of producing newspapers the demand is constant and must be met every morning and evening. Suspension of business even for a day in the case of a newspaper would be disastrous. Editors and commentators must always be thinking of and preparing matter for the succeeding issue of the paper before the current issue is upon the press.

For more than twenty years Bernard McEvoy had been writing an editorial sermon for the Saturday or Sunday issue of the newspaper he served. And before one article was printed he was thinking about and arranging in his mind the material for the next article. It was as a result of this discipline that the last sermon he wrote was printed about a week after his death and that his influence for good in the community was perpetuated beyond the period of his physical life.

Sages and philosophers of all ages have told us that people who have been vouchsafed great length of days must derive all the satisfaction they can from mental contemplation of days which are dead, because the future can have nothing in store for them. We believe it was Sir William Mulock, one of the oldest and the most eminent of the public men of Canada, who was quoted by The Colonist on Sunday as saying that one of the only consolations of old age was happy memories of the light upon the faces and laughter flowing from the lips of little children. We remember that the last time we met Mr. McEvoy in his office in The Province Building there was a picture of a beautiful child of four or five years old hanging upon the wall. In conversation we were told that the picture was that of the youngest son of the artist, that the boy had died in his early years, and that the hand which had painted the picture was the hand of Mr. McEvoy. After that the conversation was somewhat strained, for the emotion of the old man was evident, and the sympathy of his friend was too sincere for coherent expression.

But the journalist, whether old or young, cannot enjoy the privilege of looking backward and indulging in the luxury of happy and treasured memories. Men of other professions may do that; eminent jurists and even learned lawyers may do it; but journalists must always be looking forward and anticipating coming events. Before one day has run its course, newspaper men must have forgotten what has gone before and be preparing for the work for another day. The modern newspaper is a living, vital thing, and must be the product of living, vital, life-loving men—and women, too, for that matter. When a professional journalist begins to look backward instead of forward, he has lost touch with and interest in life and events, and has become a derelict; all the privileges of age are denied him, and it is a merciful thing if he is taken with his hand still upon the plough. Bernard McEvoy was a newspaperman of the old school in the physical sense of the term, but he was entirely free from the weaknesses of newspapermen of the old school in any sense of the term. Anything that was sordid or unclean was deeply repugnant to his soul. He lived without fear and his life was beyond reproach.

MUNICIPAL EXPENDITURES

Sir,—Well, what next? Our ex-Mayor pleads for $25,000 for publicity; the Police Commission wants $8,000 for automatic stop signs; the Friendly Help cries for warm clothing for the destitute; the Sunshine Inn, where free meals are given to the multitude of hungry men and women, asks for donations of food. What a contrast!

Somebody must go without. Will it be the Publicity Bureau or the hungry men and women? Which will we buy, stop signs for the streets or warm clothing for the needy? Which is the most essential to the welfare of Victoria?

But, of course, the Publicity Bureau will get its $25,000, and the stop signs will rise all dressed up in new paint and glittering nickel, while we, the ordinary folk that pay the taxes will push on and donate what we can to the urgent needs of our fellow citizens who are up against it.

The stray tourist who comes here this year will see a wonderful sight. He will see brand new and brilliant stop signs, automatically operated from police headquarters, holding him up at various points, and he will wonder why. The amount of traffic, he will think, hardly warrants all the fuss. He will hear, too, of our gigantic drive for tourists that costs the taxpayers $25,000, but he will look in vain for the results. Again he will wonder and say to himself: "This town must be crazy." Then he will see the line-up at the free lunch counter which will make him marvel more. Likely about that time he may be compelled to join the line-up himself. Yet, above it all, he will hear the sonorous voice of the well-fed publicity bureau crying aloud that famous slogan of its craft: "Follow the birds to Victoria." What a life!

RELIEF CAMP AT LONG BEACH

Sir,—The Government relief camp at Long Beach is now in operation. Forty men are already here and more are coming in as transportation serves. The camp is built in a lonely situation and apart from walks on this really wonderful beach, there is no amusement whatever for the men stationed there.

I would like to appeal to your good offices and the kindness of my fellow readers to make more bearable the lot of these men who are thus placed through no fault of their own.

A battery operated radio, to give them news of the outer world, games of any sort and reading matter, including The Colonist, would be most gratefully appreciated.

STOP-AND-GO SIGNALS

Sir,—I beg to congratulate Mr. R. Jackson on his protest in your Sunday issue against the ridiculous proposal of the city to spend $8,000 on such nonsense as stop-and-go signals. It was also very satisfactory to see the Ratepayers' Association register its protest against it.

In all well-ordered communities, the City Council and police force should hold the confidence and respect of the citizens, but I submit that such unjustifiable expenditure, with thousands of persons practically starving in our midst, seems not far short of criminal, and does nothing but expose our civic authorities to ridicule and consequent loss of confidence on the part of the citizens.

It is to be hoped the City Council will tell us when we have too much traffic on our streets to please our tradespeople before they try to stop it.

T. EDWARD CLARK.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS

Sir,—We learn that it is the intention of the local police department to spend $8,000 on traffic signals. Does this not seem to be a rather extravagant waste of funds at the present time? Everyone is talking economy and cutting down expenses, even the wages of the policemen, yet they want to squander another $8,000 on something we can do without. The present method seems quite good enough, and has had remarkable effect in preventing accidents, I think. Why change it.

As regards the downstown streets, surely we have enough constables doing very little, and they can direct the traffic at the busy times. It is not a very difficult job, so long as the public are made to obey the arm of the law. They had no traffic signals in England some time ago, but the way the traffic was handled was a sight to watch; so it can be done here. There are many other ways $8,000 can be spent or be put to use besides traffic signals in these times of stress, as it seems so needless at present.

CHILDREN'S AID AND ORPHANAGE

Sir,—After three years' dilatory effort there appears no inclination of the Orphanage management toward an amalgamation of the two institutions. The annual report of the medical health officer cannot be ignored, in which he depicts the overcrowded unsanitary arrangements of the Children's Aid Home, and emphasizes the dire need of an adequate building, suggesting three possibilities: (1) The building of a new home, which he rightly infers is impossible in the present financial stress; (2) An amalgamation, whereby the use of the Orphanage would fully suffice for a dual service, apparently not at present feasible owing to sentimental and technical objections of the Orphanage management; (3) Boarding out surplus children in private homes, obviously unpractical and too expensive.

So it appears that the only available expedient is this amalgamation of the Children's Aid and the Orphanage. The serious situation of the Children's Aid and its ever-increasing requirements is well understood. Since the annual report, seven additional cases have to be accommodated.

What about the Orphanage? Let us get down to hard facts. The buildings, grounds, bequests and donations have all been given to and for an "orphanage." The management opposes the amalgamation on the technical grounds that it is bound to conserve the trust for a "Protestant" orphanage only. Granting its argument is correct, then it has itself held an anomalous position for a considerable period.

Out of some thirty-five children now in the Orphanage, only about five are orphans. The remainder, I am informed, are child boarders, placed in the home because they there share the benefits of public support, less expensive than in private homes, where they should be, and leave more room in the public building for the poor little derelicts.

Orphans appear to be a rapidly diminishing species. Suppose the supply becomes extinct, the Orphanage, no longer being able to function, the courts would have to decide the use to which the property and funds would be put. For practical purposes, the Orphanage, strictly as an orphanage, is moribund.

As to the only other technical objection to amalgamation, namely, that only Protestant children can be admitted to the Orphanage, what righteous judge would assume that Mr. Taylor, who gave the institution in his great love for little children, would have any destitute child perish for lack of care and shelter because it had not been baptised into a Protestant church?

As the intention was evidently to differentiate between Protestant and Catholic, and as the Catholics jealously care for their own little unfortunates, neither this nor the former technical objection have any weight of argument against amalgamation.

If the Orphanage management continues to maintain its unwillingness or inability to meet the issue promptly, the urgent need of the children will necessitate the parties interested, viz., the Provincial Government, the City, Children's Aid and Orphanage, or such of them as desire the general use of the Orphanage for child welfare service, to make an application for a court ruling.

It is to be hoped this delay will not be necessary, and that the meeting now being arranged will reach a practical solution in the very near future.

PRICE OF GASOLINE

Sir,—I am sure that every automobile owner will be interested in reading your editorial entitled "Price of Gasoline," which appeared in today's issue of The Colonist, and will be gratified to learn that at last there is to be an investigation of this matter by a committee of the Federal Government. It is sincerely hoped that, in addition to investigating the retail price of gasoline, the whole matter of the production and distribution of this commodity in Canada will be gone into. It would appear that the difference in the price between points in Canada and the United States is out of all proportion, and in view of the fact that gasoline can now be considered a quasi public utility, it should be subject to a measure of control.

With regard to the comparative prices between different points, it might have been advisable to mention the fact that the retail price in Victoria, without gasoline tax, is 25c per gallon, as against 16.8c per gallon in Seattle, thus showing that Victoria motorists are at even a greater disadvantage in this respect than those in Vancouver.

Reference to Hansard of June 12, 1931, discloses the fact that Mr. C. E. Bothwell, member for Swift Current, on that day discussed the gasoline problem in the House of Commons very completely and, in addition to quoting the comparative prices, he revealed some startling figures regarding the apparent profits of some oil companies.

More than a year ago the directors of the Victoria Branch of the Automobile Club, having the conviction that the price of gasoline was too high, undertook to secure a reduction which met with a certain amount of success when the price was reduced from 33c to 30c per gallon here. Following this the provincial executive of the club took the matter up and urged upon the Provincial Government the desirability of a Federal investigation and, at the time of the meeting of the Premiers of the four Western provinces in Calgary, representation to this effect was made to that conference on behalf of Western Automobile Clubs by the Alberta Motorist Association. It is understood that considerable correspondence has taken place between the four Western Provincial Governments and the Federal Government regarding this subject as a result.

Gasoline is one of the few commodities which has not felt the effect of general falling prices, and in view of the fact that it enters so much into the economic life of the public, it is sincerely hoped that the investigation about to be held will prove fruitful.

THE DIMENSIONAL ERA

Sir,—In my last letter I endeavored to prove, by scientific facts (not surmises), that the solidarity of matter is a conception c e to our own imperfect senses, yet I fully realize that what we accept in terms of matter must have an existence on another plane, at any rate so long as we are included in a dimensional era. We are now in four dimensional space, the fourth dimension being time. As none of these dimensions can exist in the infinite, we are brought up against a problem too great for our finite minds to imagine. Yet it must be so.

Matter on another plane, let us borrow a word from the theosophists, and call it the "astral" plane, is translated by us into the language we materialists can understand, and so are the laws that govern it, so that the laws governing it are those we recognize, although expressed in terms of matter. Therefore our discoveries, proved as they are, are correct and reliable.

Scientific investigation has then, perhaps without fully recognizing the fact, verged on the metaphysical and has given us a solid basis on which to found certain researches into the future state. And the result is very comforting, at any rate to those who have, in theis mundane existence observed the golden rule and the other precepts of Christianity.

Furthermore, the facts we can elicit do not conflict with the tenets of any Christian faith because they deal with a period about which the churches are almost silent, namely, that between the grave and the "last day."

But I am anticipating. The lesson the scientific facts teach is that our materialism is a misconception due to the imperfection of our senses, and that our ego, our real "I am," is not material but is only surrounded by this misconception.

Perfection is infinite, and we are very far indeed from perfect. All nature points to progressive development, and there is a vast amount of trustworthy evidence, entirely apart from scientific knowledge, to prove that we do not step into the infinite over the threshold of the grave, but still find ourselves well within the dimensional era, which will only vanish "when time shall be no more" and when it is resolved, for us, into infinity, or its twin brother, eternity.

THE JAPANESE VIEWPOINT

Sir,—Many of the peoples do not love the Japanese any more because they willing and they able to do the fight for their country same as American and English. Always the American wants to go between Japan and China because they afraid to lose some trade there. In the war long ago with China, Japan wins and spends much lives and much money and gets nothing for the reason that Germany, Russia, America and great Powers have big trades with China. If Japan loses trade it is nothing, but if big Power lose trade there is much trouble.

You have Leagues of Nations to say this and do the other, but words no good if nobody's soldier go with the words. Japan no good at the talk table but some little fair at fights on the land and sea. We wins on seas with China and we beats Russia well on seas many times, and all these times big Powers talk us to stop but no ships and soldiers from big Powers. All this long ago. Now Japan big Power and with good men with ships and little fair with soldiers.

We want not Europe fight or American, but jus' let Japan and China Talk and Fight by their own.

Japanese make to understand Chinese and Chinese make to understand Japanese, but Japanese and China not understand the Europe and American talk, and Europe and America not understand Japan or China. If Europe and America leave alone China and Japan Peace soon come; if not leave China and Japan alone maybe big war for the peoples. Japan fight hard and very well for Korea and peaces of Manchuria. Japanese in Canada good man and keep his family and no do hold-ups. Japanese in Canada and America no votes, and no want vote just want work and be happy all same as in Japan. Europe ships had Nelson and fight well. Europe soldier had Napoleon and fight well, and by and by come good trade. Japan ships had Togo and Kamamura and well fighted. Japanese soldier had Oyama, Nodzu, Oku, Nogi, Kuroki and mores and spirits of big Japan soldiers still stop in Japan, all same as spirits of Japanese sailors still stop in Japan's ships. Japanese have no friends but King George, English. But Japanese ships fight in World War and English ship all over the seas, but some Canada Japanese fight with Canada soldier against German. Japan keep word. English keep word and good friend. Japan beats China and good trade come to English and American and Japan, but Japan must fight China as talks no good, all same as Leagues of Nationals.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of February 23, 1882)

Staff Re-elected—In a ballot cast for police magistrate, superintendent and members of the force, it was unanimously decided to re-elect Mr. Pemberton and Superintendant O'Connor, along with his entire staff.

Host at Dinner—His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor entertained the members of the local Government and several members of the local House at dinner last evening at his residence, Esquimalt.

Sergeant-at-Arms—William Jenkinson has been appointed sergeant-at-arms of the House. He carried what Cromwell called "that bauble" with a grace and dignity which won all hearts during the opening ceramony.

Another Wreck—Another ship went to its doom yesterday while trying to cross the dangerous bar at the mouth of the Columbia River. All hands were saved, but the ship itself and the cargo, which was valued at $42,500, were completely lost. The boat was outward bound with Walla Walla wheat when she sank.

FRESH LOANS MADE TO B.C.

Government Receives Advance of $500,000, but No Payment Outright

British Columbia municipalities will be charged 5% per cent on money advanced to them from Ottawa through Provincial channels, it became clear yesterday. The British Columbia treasury received an advance of $500,000 from Ottawa at the week-end, earmarked for the Province's share of relief works, and for the municipal share of similar undertakings. No outright payment, however, was made on behalf of the Federal share of the costs involved, said by British Columbia officials to be $535,000 additional.

In covering advices from Ottawa, it was officially intimated, the $500,000 was described as a loan on account of the Province's and the municipalities' share of the cost of relief works, and not as a contribution of the Federal proportion of the cost outstanding. The payment adds to $2,300,000 already received by British Columbia, making $2,800,000 towards provincial and civil relief works.

Express instructions were given from Ottawa that in respect to advances that may be made to municipalities, these loans are to be secured by treasury bills of the Province, and a rate of 5% per cent interest charged on such advances.

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, said the Province was anxious to secure money on account of the Federal share of the costs involved, but that the present payment could not be used for that purpose. Further negotiations are proceeding with Ottawa.

DEMONSTRATION PROVES ORDERLY

Five Thousand "Hunger Marchers" Assemble in Vancouver—Delegation Is Heard

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22 (CP).—Five thousand "hunger marchers," representing unemployed from Vancouver, New Westminster, North Shore and points in the Fraser Valley and Interior, gathered at Powell Street grounds here this afternoon.

At the head of the parade was carried a British flag, while behind it came emblems of the Soviet Union and broad banners carrying slogans of the unemployed.

After a number of speeches, a delegation of twenty went to the City Hall and presented a request for more relief. The council gave the delegation a hearing.

Proceedings throughout were orderly, and little notice was taken of police officers stationed along the route of the march and at the meeting grounds. Police reserves were transferred from headquarters to the drill hall behind the Cambie Street grounds, but were released from duty when the meeting dispersed in orderly groups.

Col. L. U. Mulloy, Of Kingston, Dead

IROQUOIS, Ont., Feb. 22.—A colorful career was at an end today with the death here last night of Colonel Lorne U. Mulloy, former professor of military history at the Royal Military College, Kingston, and veteran of two wars. Although blinded by an enemy bullet during the South African War, "Trooper" Mulloy was able to carry on special recruiting duties during the Great War.

Nine years ago he was admitted to the Ontario Bar by special dispensation and has practised here since. Colonel Mulloy was born on a farm near Iroquois fifty-three years ago. On his return from South Africa he enrolled at Queen's University, and four years later graduated with honors in arts.

PIONEER NUN PASSES AWAY

Sister Mary Octavia Came to Victoria Fifty-Seven Years Ago

At noon yesterday Reverend Sister Mary Octavia, whose family name was Josephine Lapres, passed away at St. Ann's Academy, Victoria. Born at St. Polycarp, Province of Quebec, March 25, 1854, this aged member of the sisterhood came to Victoria September 6, 1875, and had the enviable record of spending more than fifty years in works of mercy in this city alone. This long term of self-sacrificing service was divided between appointments at the St. Joseph's Hospital and St. Ann's Academy.

An outstanding kindness of character contrived to make her a favorite with the pupils of St. Ann's school. So well known was this trait of character that both senior and junior pupils for years past held this venerable sister in great esteem. The younger children were particularly attracted by her sweet disposition and sympathetic understanding.

ONE OF THREE

In 1924 a great concourse of friends and former pupils foregathered to celebrate the event of three sisters' fiftieth year in the sisterhood, Sister Mary Octavia was one of those feted. At this date the celebration was enhanced by a visit from two of her relatives from Detroit.

Of late years this pioneer nun passed her time directing the work of keeping up the extensive gardens of the academy, and the occupation proved a labor of love despite her declining years.

SHORT ILLNESS

An illness due to a cold, and which was short but severe, warned those in charge that conditions were critical last week. On Saturday last the patient passed the crisis of a bronchial trouble very well, but paralysis set in and a life precious to the hearts of countless recipients of her devotedness ebbed away, her death occurring at 12:45 o'clock yesterday.

Sister Mary Octavia was a French scholar of much talent and as a composer of French composition she had few peers in the sisterhood anywhere. Through a spirit of self-denial she chose the lesser duties of looking after temporal things, and strove, as it were, to help others at the cost of much self-sacrificing labor. As a lover of nature, of late years she spent much time upon the gardens here. Her work and plans were admired by friends and strangers all the Summer months, the extensive grounds of the academy being among the most interesting in the city, both historically and botanically.

CONVENTION IN SESSION HERE

Ice Industry Leaders Visit Observatory—Many Marketing Matters Debated

Fifty delegates to the thirteenth annual convention of the Northwest Association of Ice Industries last night forgot business for a while and scanned the heavens through the telescope at Little Saanich Mountain. Prior to their trip to the astrophysical observatory, the delegates put in a busy day debating matters pertinent to the ice industry.

They were welcomed by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines, on behalf of the Provincial Government and were presented with the key to the city by Mayor David Leeming who, during his welcoming address, said that Victoria prided itself on being a convention city, and pointed to the many places of interest to be seen here.

HEAR SECRETARY

The delegates received reports from the president and secretary, and considered the main business of the convention. During the morning, Leslie C. Smith, secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries, Chciago, gave an illuminating address on the progress made by the national organization and the development of the refrigeration market.

At the luncheon session, W. B. Wilson, chairman of the entertainment committee, outlined the programme of entertainment.

In the afternoon, R. G. Hall, of Aberdeen, Wash., spoke on the subject of leasing refrigerators and supplying ice service to commercial trade on a monthly contract. He also dealt with the subject of selling ice on rural routes.

SELLING SERVICE

W. B. Wilson, of Victoria, told the delegates of the development in the selling of refrigeration with ice service. His speech was followed by a general discussion on radio broadcasts. "This debate was led by A. G. Riddell, of Portland.

Co-operative delivery systems was another topic dealt with. H. Y. Hansen, of Tacoma, was the speaker. His address was followed by a round table conference regarding surveys of markets and co-operative advertising.

Today will mark the closing of the convention, and many interesting papers will be read. A banquet and dance at the Empress Hotel will follow the election of officers, which will take place in the afternoon.

To Receive Honorary Degree of LL.D.

HON. S. F. TOLMIE

Premier of British Columbia, who is shortly to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the College of Puget Sound, Tacoma. The degree will be formally conferred on the Premier this Summer, at a ceremony set for June 6. Word of the voting of the award was received by the Premier while he was indisposed, and plans for immediate conferring of the degree had to be postponed.

GENERAL STAY IS NOT MOOTED

Limited Moratorium Plan Would Be Subject to Judicial Discretion

While no reference has been made in the House yet as to proposed moratorium legislation at this session, Attorney-General Pooley has explained that no blanket powers would be sought, and that nothing in the nature of a general moratorium is contemplated.

Discussion, said Mr. Pooley, had been given to proposals that amending legislation be put forward to give relief in certain cases, but through a full disclosure of all attendant circumstances to a judge in the courts and only at his discretion.

This, it is argued, would meet the case of those who, through special circumstances, were unable to meet principal payments, though able to pay interest and keep up taxes involved. Where bona fides could be established to the satisfaction of the courts, discretionary powers might apply to a postponement of principal payments for a year, with adequate safeguards against abuses.

Mr. Pooley is expected to develop the proposal more fully when he speaks to it in the House. His present purpose, he said, was to deny that any general moratorium was being considered.

SAANICH VOTERS ARE REGISTERING

Many New Names Enrolled on Electoral List by J. G. Dobbs, Registrar

In the Saanich electoral district, new names are being added daily to the official list of persons entitled to vote at the next provincial election. Enrolment is being made at the office of J. G. Dobbs, registrar, R.M.D. 4, Cadboro Bay. Applications to be placed on the list may be made either there or at the office of any authorized electoral commissioner, and application forms will be supplied. Any voter who has changed his address should notify the registrar in writing of his new address. No one is entitled to be on the voters' list in more than one electoral district.

All persons are entitled to be registered as voters who are: (a) British subjects, by birth or naturalization, of the full age of twenty-one years; (b) residents in British Columbia for the last six months; (c) residents in the electoral district for one month.

Women have the same right to be registered and to vote as men, and naturalized citizens have the same right as British subjects.

Applications and changes of address will be received until April 5 next, but early application is desirable to the registrar.

GANDHI NOT ALL OF INDIA

Abdullah Yusuf Ali, Moslem Scholar and Statesman, to Lecture Tonight

"From the questions that people ask me in Canada, I find that the general conception of Gandhi is that he is a sort of dictator in India, whereas he is leader of a party which represents at the most 1 or 2 per cent of the population, a party that has been declared illegal by Lord Willingdon," said Abdullah Yusuf Ali, C.B.I., the distinguished Moslem scholar, statesman and litterateur, who is here to address a public meeting at the Memorial Hall tonight, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

Gandhi does not, he maintains, represent more than a very small section of Indian opinion. In the first place, owing to the vast illiteracy of India, where 90 per cent of the people are without schooling of any kind, the vast mass of the people are not competent to judge any political issue. The student class, newspapers and the members of the legal and one or two other professions are practically the only people who take any interest in politics, and these are ranged chiefly on the "left." But even among them there are wide differences of opinion.

OPPOSE GANDHI

"The Mussulmen, for instance, as a class are strongly opposed to Gandhi's propaganda; also the non-Brahmans among the Hindus and the landholding classes—so that there is a considerable body of Hindus themselves who do not follow the civil disobedience movement," asserts Mr. Yusuf Ali.

He also referred to another apparently generally-held misconception in this country, namely, that Lord Willingdon was driving the wheels of Government too hard in India.

"This," he maintains, "is not true. Lord Willingdon has, I think, shown great patience in meeting the subversive movement, and was forced to take the action he did by sheer necessity. He is one of the viceroys who will do his utmost to bring about constitutional development in India, and is working hard toward that end by his policy of keeping the forces of disorder in check."

NOT ONE CLASS

Mr. Yusuf Ali also wishes to emphasize the fact of India's widley-diversified classes, races and religious cults, cultures, education and political views. Many times in this country he had encountered the idea that India was homogeneous in all these respects. The serious students were, it is true, seeking for some common formula by which India could develop self-governing institutions within the Empire. But this was not easy, and owing particularly to the backward state of education and the illiteracy of the people, it would take time and patience.

All these different classes, races and religious groups had their special hereditary background as an influence moving them one way or the other. Mussuiman students were mostly pro-Government; the landed classes also would be with the Government; but the lower classes would probably vary, some being constitutionalists, some extremists, but all aiming vaguely at progress.

Broadly speaking, the Indian states, British India, represented by a Mussulman population of 74,000,000, were loyal to Britain, and would strongly resist any attempt on an independent India, he declared.

HONOR MEMORY OF WAR HEROES

More Than 250 Persons Attend Service at Armory Commemorating Battle of Paardeberg

Victoria men who fell at the Battle of Paardeberg in the South African War were honored on Sunday afternoon when 250 citizens gathered at the Armory for the annual memorial service, which was held under the auspices of the British Campaigners' Branch of the Canadian Legion. Regents of the I.O.D.E. and naval and military authorities also attended.

The service was opened with an address by Colonel Lorne Ross, D.S.O., president of the branch. The hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was sung.

Captain Rev. Bruce Gray, M.C., gave an address, after which a tablet erected to honor the men who fell, was decorated with wreaths and floral tributes. Pipe Major W. Wishart played the lament, "Flowers of the Forest," while the gathering joined in singing the hymn, "Fight the Good Fight."

PAYS TRIBUTE

Captain Gray paid a high tribute to the men who had answered their country's call willingly and crossed the seas to uphold the honor of the Empire on the field of battle. It was the first time, he said, that Canadian and Imperial troops had worked co-operatively.

Music was provided by the band of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, C.A. The service closed with the "Last Post," benediction and the singing of the National Anthem.

SALARY CUTS NOW GENERAL

Heads of Civic Departments and Majority of Staffs Get Reductions

Adjustment of salaries of the heads of departments and their staffs came under discussion at last night's meeting of the City Council in committee on estimates and the board was forced by circumstance to take each official, clerk and stenographer under individual vote in the matter of reduction.

Although there was a general desire on the part of the aldermen to adhere to the policy of a 10 per cent cut in all salaries, this was found impossible and some employees were given special consideration. The members of the council admitted the task was an unpleasant one, especially after reading letters of recommendation on behalf of individuals from officials in charge of the various departments. On the whole, the 10 per cent reduction was applied freely in every department. One employee received a $5 a month increase because of special circumstances, the head of one department received a $5 a month reduction and five others received no reduction. The remainder had the full 10 per cent cut.

DEPARTMENTS AFFECTED

Departments affected by last night's reductions were, legal department, comptroller's office, city clerk's office, assessor's office, building inspector's office, purchasing agent's office, wiring inspector's office, land department and stores department. A number of other departments will be considered as soon as reports are received from the officials in charge.

Although the general estimates are subject to further revision when the committee of the council is through with them, it is almost certain that no further reductions will be made in the salaries of the civic servants.

MAYOR'S SALARY

As intimated two weeks ago, Mayor David Leeming insisted his salary be reduced 10 per cent, the same as other employees. The council approved the reduction last night, but Alderman R. T. Williams suggested that the reduction should be 20 per cent. The cut of 20 per cent in the aldermanic stipend stands as passed at a previous meeting.

Having dealt with the majority of the salaries under the direct control of the council, the only departments which have not signified their intentions are the school board and the police commission, library commission and the fire department, and a conference is being held with the City Council tonight, but no definite decision is expected as these departments will want to report to the employees under their control.

TAX INCREASE TO BE SLIGHT

Esquimalt Ratepayers May Only Pay Half Mill More on Lands

An increase of not more than half a mill on the land assessment and on 5 1-3 per cent of improvements can be expected by Esquimalt taxpayers during 1932, following the first consideration of the estimates given at a special meeting of the council last night. The tentative expenditures, as submitted to the council by the finance committee, were accompanied with the suggested rates of 20 mills on lands and on 33 1-3 per cent of improvements.

These rates are an increase over last year's, the figures for 1931 being 18 1-2 mills on land and on 25 per cent of improvements. The noticeable increase in the improvements tax is due to the lack of tax collections in the municipality last year.

MUST RAISE $32,825

The estimate for general expenses was $27,684, while the police estimates are $6,565. The municipality's portion of the sinking fund and interest on the loan is $10,759.24, giving a total expenditure of $45,008.24, with the exception of the public works department. Deducted from this is a surplus of $12,182.40 from last year derived from sources other than land taxes, which leaves $32,825.84.

The suggested rates of the finance committee would produce $54,434.60, which gives a balance of $21,608.76 for the public works expenditures.

SCHOOL RATE DOWN

The school expenditures require a tax of 10 mills, a decrease of 1½ mills from last year. This makes the tax rate 30 mills, as compared with that of 29½ mills of 1931. The taxable assessment of land in Esquimalt amounts to $2,071,383, while the net improvements total $1,951,065.

The improvement tax increase is accountable when it is realized that last year only 72.09 per cent of the taxes were collected, while during 1930 the collections were 83.75 per cent. At the end of last year outstanding taxes amounted to $34,940.51, an increase of nearly $11,000 over $23,442.33 outstanding in 1930.

PUBLIC WORKS UNFINISHED

The public works department estimates were referred to the public works committee to be considered in company with the municipal engineer, working on a basis of $21,608.

Following this meeting, the figures will again come before the council when they will be given final passing.

During the discussion on the estimates, the question of whether or not the library service would be continued arose, but owing to the fact that Councillor Thomas Hadfield, chairman of the library committee, was absent owing to illness, it was decided that this would be left over until the next meeting.

In future, births will be included only in quarterly reports, the medical health officer advised the city council last night.

The application was granted by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, and I. W. Whittaker was counsel for the petitioner.

Foul Bay Playground—Awaiting a report from the parks committee, the City Council was unable last night to take action concerning the setting aside of a piece of property to be used as a playground for the Foul Bay district children. The committee promised to have a report ready for the next meeting of council.

Fair Association Meeting — The adjourned annual meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association will be held in the council chamber at the City Hall at 8 o'clock this evening. Selection of standing committees for 1932 and the financial report of 1931 will be the main items of business under consideration.

Advertises Victoria—The March number of The Rotarian, the official organ of the International Rotary movement, will give attention to scenes in and about Victoria, according to information received from Emerson Gansly, who has charge of the publication. The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau was asked to provide some of the material.

False Pretence Charged—Edward D. Bishop was formally charged in the city police court yesterday morning with receiving goods to the value of $17.50 from the city of Victoria with intent to defraud. He pleaded not guilty and C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked for a remand to Friday morning to permit communication with the authorities at Vancouver relative to compensation payments alleged to have been paid to the accused.

Boorman, were started in the Supreme Court here yesterday when D. Marshall Gordon, representing the bank, made formal application before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald. H. G. The following bodies will be represented: Victoria School Board, Police Commission, Library Commission, fire wardens' committee of the council and the City Council. The conference, it is stated, may be held privately.

Grant for Publicity — The City Council last night adopted the recommendation of its finance committee to grant the sum of $2,500 to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, on "account of the 1932 grant." The award of $2,500 was opposed by Alderman R. T. Williams, who was informed by the members of council that the amount in no way committed the board to the gross amount which might be given under the vote now in estimates.

House Bombarded With Barrage of Liberal Queries

If the Liberal Opposition in the Legislature waived its rights to speak on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, it is not carrying magnanimity in this respect to other time-saving devices, it became evident yesterday, when 105 Liberal questions were placed on the order paper.

The questions, with their subsections included, touch on 250 matters on which information is sought. Revenues of the Government under many different heads; unemployment relief dispositions made, and engagements and dismissals of personnel, are included in a barrage of questions, running to six and a half proof sheets of the votes and proceedings for the day.

Many hours' research by a large staff of clerks would be required to answer even a portion of the question, it is estimated.

Switzerland is expected to restrict the importation of semi-luxuries.

WAS CHAMPION OF SEAFARERS

Mrs. Alice Thomson, President of Connaught Institute, Passed Suddenly

A well known resident of the city for the past twenty years, whose activities on behalf of sailors and seamen particularly have placed the whole community in her debt, passed away suddenly on Sunday in the death of Mrs. Alice Thomson, president of the Ladies' Guild of the Connaught Seamen's Institute almost since the inception of the institution.

Widow of the late Captain William Thomson, Seaforth Highlanders, Mrs. Thomson was born in Dover, England, eighty-four years ago, being the daughter of the late Captain William Broughton, R.N., and granddaughter of Commodore Broughton, whose distinguished name is commemorated by the Commodore Broughton Chapter, I.O.D.E. From her father and her girlhood associations she inherited traditions which made her a lifelong champion of the seamen and sailors, and these were incorporated into the government of the Connaught Seamen's Institute, whose meetings she attended punctiliously and over which she presided with great executive ability almost up to the time of her death.

WAS HONORARY REGENT

She was also honorary regent of the Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., and a further expression of her interest in seafaring men was expressed in her membership in the Navy League. She was held in great affection and esteem by all her associates in these organizations and by many personal friends besides.

Three sons and two daughters survive: H. B. Thomson, chairman of the British Columbia Liquor Board; E. Vernon Thomson, also of Victoria; Major-General Sir William Thomson, of Argyleshire, Scotland; Miss E. A. Thomson, who lived with her here, and Mrs. Leggatt, of Cambridge, England.

The funeral will take place today from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, at 1:45 o'clock, proceeding to Christ Church Cathedral, where Dean Quainton will conduct the service at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Royal Oak Cemetery.

ALDERMEN VETO SIGNAL SYSTEM

Following a short discussion principally concerning the jurisdiction of the police commission, being an elected body, to incur extraordinary expenditures without the consent of the council, the city aldermen last night voted unanimously to "receive and file" the recommendation from the commission to expend $8,000 for automatic traffic signal lights at downtown street intersections, and thereby rejected the proposal.

The question was tabled after the reading of a recommendation from the commission asking that the work be proceeded with at the earliest moment. Alderman W. T. Straith asked if the council had jurisdiction over expenditures of the police commission. "If it is an expenditure which the commission may legally incur, then the remainder is only a matter of procedure," Alderman Straith said. He was supported by Alderman H. O. Litchfield, who mentioned that the commission was an elective body and some care should be exercised before rejecting the recommendation.

City Solicitor H. S. Pringle said that the expenditure was one that should receive the assent of the council. The vote was then taken and the recommendation ordered filed.

The doctor is a M.R.C.S. of England, and orginally came to Winnipeg in 1882, and since that date he has held for a time the post of ship's surgeon on board the Wiomera of the Union Line, and visited Victoria and Vancouver on that ship in 1902. After completing two of three voyages he returned to his practice in Winnipeg.

Dr. Maclean stated he considered that Victoria was an ideal spot to spend a holiday, and he thought that even for an invalid who was incapable of taking some physical exercise, the climate of Victoria during almost the whole year was ideal.

Dr. Maclean has long-standing family connections with this province, his uncle, M. A. Maclean, being the first Mayor of Vancouver.

Mr. Crombie is connected with the Canadian National Railways and manages to get over to Victoria about twice a year, his Winter visit, Mr. Crombie stated, making a nice break in the Montreal Winter.

He further declared that it was noticeable in the East that the number of residents who make a practice of going to Florida and California in the Winter was rapidly decreasing, and he thought the West Coast would benefit by this change of plan.

Japanese warships on the Yangtze River, and there were doubtless many more vessels that we did not see. It was a lurid sight to see smoke wreathing into the heavens from the Chapel district that formerly had housed half a million people; to hear the thunder of guns and see the flashes from warboats and the shells bursting above the Woosung forts.

"Chinese snipers have dug themselves in along the river bank, and a continual war is being maintained between them and the Japanese aerial corps. We watched this game of death for some time, and it reminded one of nothing so much as a number of hawks hunting field mice. The Chinese build themselves little mud huts or dugouts on the river bank, and from these they endeavor to pick off sailors from Japanese ships on the river. Half a dozen airplanes are continually on patrol. They swoop down on a suspected dugout and let go a burst of machine-gun bullets. Occasionally a Chinese sniper will scramble out of his hiding place as the shells tears through the roof of his pit; then another burst of fire from the air as he crumples and falls.

"The International Settlement is overflowing with women and children refugees from Chapei. The godowns and all the varied accommodations of the area are being utilized to house these homeless folk. From the back rooms of the Canadian Pacific offices, as we were completing our business ashore before the Asia left, the wailing of small children could be heard. The Bund, formerly teeming with life, was practically deserted, and business is at a standstill. We passed out of the Whangpoo into the Yangtze on Sunday, the Japanese ships ceasing fire on the Woosung forts to let us go safely by. Ashore, we could see the tanks assaulting the forts from the shore; from the air, planes were dropping bombs and tearing up the ground, while landing parties could be seen crawling up the banks of the river, to be welcomed by the spitting machine-guns of the hidden Chinese, forcing them to return to their boats."

Conditions Ripe At Shanghai for Serious Trouble

Chinese Political Writers Spreading Propaganda, Japanese Incensed Over Effective Boycott and Striking Mill Employees All Played Their Parts in Bringing On Present Situation

Relegating the professions of the spokesmen for the two countries now involved in the business of battle on the other side of the Pacific to the discard, and wishing to be fair with both, the essence of the information secured from travelers and officers aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Ss. Empress of Asia, on her arrival from Orient ports, including Shanghai, yesterday morning, it would appear that, following the action which the Japanese maintain it was necessary to take in order to protect their nationals in Manchuria, the Chinese of the southern provinces especially instituted a boycott against Japanese goods, which became so effective that it was only a question of time, if continued, when Japan's trade would be wholly paralyzed.

The centre of this boycott activity, being the distributing point for all the commerce of the vast territory drained by the Yangtze River, was Shanghai. From the Paris of the East the "Salvation" societies carried on their anti-Japanese propaganda, formulated chiefly by the leading Chinese political writers, all to such good effect that Japanese merchandise piled up in the godowns and remained unsold in the shops of the merchants handling it.

OPERATED MILLS

Besides the European and American population of the great city on the Whangpoo, there is a large number of Japanese resident there. Some of these operated textile mills, about thirty in all, employing some 70,000 Chinese until recently. Resenting the boycott, they suspended a bonus system in vogue, which constituted one or two days' pay for every fourteen days of labor satisfactorily performed. Naturally, this only served to accentuate the tenseness of the situation, and the majority of the Chinese workers walked out.

All the ingredients were at hand for the making of serious trouble, and the presence of a strong Cantonese element made for a particularly acute Chinese political consciousness, so it was not surprising that the municipal police began to have a busy time in dealing with assaults, more or less confined to spitting and scratching; but when a band of Chinese gangsters attacked five Japanese Buddhist monks on January 18 and killed one of their number, it precipitated events which may lead to a conflagration involving many nations.

The Shanghai International Settlement is composed of several one-time concessions, in some degrees still regionally national. It is administered as an international entity under the Municipal Council, and upon this council both Chinese and Japanese (a recent concession) are represented. The responsibility for maintaining order should be with the council as a whole under the circumstances, but as two sections of it were divided, the other sections, principally British and American, had to do their best to preserve neutrality. The Japanese allege the council is unduly tolerant of anti-Japanese agitation and altogether too severe in repressing Japanese reprisals.

NOT WARRANTED

These charges are not warranted. The council had taken every means to carry out its duties as far as the International Settlement is concerned, going so far as to arrest boycott pickets and charging them as the occasion arose, stating at the same time that it would not permit direct action by Japanese or any other national.

This was not sufficient for the Japanese and, following the attack on the monks, an organized gathering set fire to a Chinese towel factory on January 20, following which they rushed for a telephone booth of the Shanghai Municipal Police, where two C.P. constables were on duty. Seeing the crowd approaching, another constable on duty at the box attempted to phone headquarters. Before he finished the box was attacked, the cord cut and the constable threatened with knives, while stones rained on the box, smashing the windows. At the same time, others of the mob attacked the other two constables, and they were beaten and stabbed.

Left by the mob, intent on further damage, one of the wounded men sounded an alarm with his whistle, bringing several other policemen hurrying to the scene. These were intercepted by the mob, one of them being thrust with a sharp weapon after he was on the ground and left for dead. Several of the Japanese mob were wounded at the same time, and one died as the result of a bullet.

Later, a mob of about a thousand Japanese paraded to their Consul-General's headquarters, precipitated further rioting, in which the victims were eight-year-old Philip Knight, son of Detective Inspector Knight, of the Shanghai police, who happened to be riding on a street car on his way home from school at the time, and Probationary Sergeant Seaby, who was knocked down by a blow on the back of the head with a hammer head wielded by a Japanese, when the police attempted to stop the rioting.

NOT SATISFIED

Although China agreed to all the demands of the Japanese, observers stated that the latter were not satisfied, and expected a different reply in order to justify their actions. They took it on themselves to bully the editor of a newspaper because his remarks on the attempted assassination of the Japanese Emperor did not meet with their approval, compelling suspension of publication as they had already done with papers at Tsingtao and Peiping. As the Shanghai newspaper was under international control, if it had offended against propriety, it was for the international authority to take whatever action was necessary on the proper Japanese protest.

Claiming justification for their appearance at Shanghai with warships, airplanes and troops to enforce their demands, the Japanese refer to the 1927 situation as being similar to the present one. At that time British troops landed to protect the Settlement. It was pointed out that the situations are not identical, and that in 1927 the Japanese were able to sidestep the boycott instituted then, and showed no anxiety even to maintain order. In 1927 the very existence of the Settlement was threatened, whereas now the trouble is entirely the reflection of an outside quarrel.

Sentiment aboard the ship was entirely against what was termed the high-handed methods of the Japanese in bombarding and dropping shells, without any warning and before any declaration of war has been made, on Chapei, where many people were killed, and which is now a shambles. Their occupation of the Japanese section of the International Settlement as a base for operations is also responsible for a lot of comment. They shell Chapei from this section, while the Chinese are kept from turning their guns in its direction for fear of endangering the lives of Europeans and Americans.

WANTED FILMS IN BIG HURRY

Transferred Near Flattery—Dorothy Alexander In—Yokohama Maru Due

Anxious for a quick delivery at Seattle of the first films to arrive in America from the disturbed area in the vicinity of Shanghai, a fast boat from the Puget Sound city met the Ss. Empress of Asia at the entrance to the Strait of Fuca yesterday morning and received the packages, rushing them to port, where they were forwarded east to New York by mail plane.

From California ports, the Pacific Steamship Company's coastal liner Ss. Dorothy Alexander docked at Rithet Piers shortly after 8 o'clock last night, with passengers for Island and Mainland points aboard. The Dorothy Alexander proceeded to Seattle at midnight.

According to advices received here by Harry Clark, yesterday, from the master of the ship, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Ss. Yokohama Maru will reach William Head at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Japan ports. This should bring the liner up against Ogden Point Piers about 3:30 o'clock. The Yokohama Maru has passengers and freight for Victoria.

From the Philippine Islands, via China and Japan ports, the American Mail Line Ss. President Madison will probably arrive here some time late tomorrow night, according to latest advices. The local office is expecting today the definite time of her arrival. The Madison has passengers and freight for the port.

Tim: "I expect so—he left me out."

CAMERAMAN GOT BREAK

Was Making Chinese Talking Pictures in Shanghai When Trouble Began

Making talking pictures in and around Shanghai for Oriental consumption during the past six months gave L. B. Britton, of the Unique and Independent film companies an opportunity which news cameramen are always hoping for but seldom favored with.

Several complete picture dramas had been completed by Mr. Britton and his assistants when the rioting started in the International Settlement at Shanghai. Since that time he was able to get many interesting "shots" of the combatants doing the real shooting when the Japanese planes flew over Chapei without warning and dropped death on the thickly populated Chinese city, wrecking houses and killing women and children.

"Already having a permit from General Lin Shek Che, commander of the 150th Brigade of the 19th Route Army, after the Japanese forces had started operations at Shanghai, I managed to get a permit from the Japanese authorities, Mr. Britton stated. "Armed with these, I thought it was going to be easy to get some real action atmosphere. I very nearly succeeded, for while we were setting up our apparatus in the north section, Japanese bullets started to drop around us, and we had to beat a hasty retreat.

INTERESTING STILLS

Besides movietone pictures, Mr. Britton has a number of stills, all of which are intensely interesting. They show the damage done by shell and bomb in Chapei, street scenes in that city, together with pictures taken in Hongkew, known as the Japanese section, which illustrated the manner of sandbag defences civilians and marines had erected in the streets, and were depending on to shield them from death; Chinese prisoners held by Japanese soldiery, in addition to various other subjects. The film man was very definite in his assertion that the Chinese resistance had surprised the Japanese, who evidently had anticipated encountering an unorganized mob.

"If the Japanese had not been protected by the International Settlement, the Chinese would have wiped them out," Mr. Britton stated. "Backed on the international area, which prevents the Chinese from firing on them for fear of killing the foreign residents, the Japanese have a distinct advantage. If the Japanese attempt to go inland, they will meet with a surprise, even with the large force that has been landed near Shanghai. Their first landing party would have been driven into the river had it not been for the International Settlement.

"There is no doubt, in my mind, that if the Japanese could see their way to withdrawing from Shanghai without losing face, they would do so. They can't do it, and as a result of their staying there no one can predict what the future may hold, not only for the peace of the Orient, but that of the whole world."

PROMINENT SHIPPING EXECUTIVE OF NOVA SCOTIA PORT PASSES

HALIFAX, Feb. 22 (CP).—Alfred E. Jones, seventy-five, one of the foremost shipping executives in Eastern Canada, died at his home here today.

President of the firm of Robin, Jones & Whitman since its formation twenty-two years ago, he had been associated with the shipping trade at Halifax since boyhood and had a record of fifty-three years as a business executive. He was a member of the first trade commission sent to the West Indies early in the present century, and was considered an authority on the Dominion's trade with those Islands.

Oldest son of the late Hon. A. G. Jones, he was born at Halifax and received his education here and at Merchiston Castle School, Edinburgh. In politics he was a Liberal, like his father, who was at one time a member of the House of Commons for Halifax, and who held office in the Dominion Cabinet as Minister of Militia.

RUDDER BROKEN WHEN DIRIGIBLE GOT LOOSE

LAKEHURST, N.J., Feb. 22 (AP). —A rudder of the navy dirigible Akron was broken off today as the giant craft broke loose from its rear handling gear and scraped the ground in a full quarter turn in a light north wind.

The dirigible was being prepared for a flight with a congressional inspection committee when the accident occurred. The mishap resulted in the inspection trip being indefinitely postponed.

The fabric of the Akron's stern was torn, leaving a wide gap in the ship's side.

LINER DOCKS FROM ORIENT

From the Philippine Islands via China and Japan ports, the Canadian Pacific liner Ss. Empress of Asia, Captain L. D. Douglas, R.N.R., commander, arrived alongside Rithet Piers shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning, proceeding to Vancouver shortly before noon, after disembarking passengers for the South and landing local mails and cargo here. The liner brought a small list of passengers, the migration from Shanghai, which was expected to come this way going to Hongkong and Manila, the Empress of Russia taking 850 women and children from the Orient city, while the Empress of Japan was to pick up all she could accommodate for the same destinations.

In all, the Asia had 132 travelers aboard, including twenty-four first class, sixty-one tourist class and forty-seven steerage. Mail bags totaled 365, including 217 for the United States, thirty-eight for Victoria and 110 for Canada. Cargo amounted to 2,300 tons of general, of which eighty tons were discharged here.

PASSENGERS

Among the passengers aboard the Asia were F. C. Hesler, recently appointed catering superintendent of Canadian Pacific Steamships, who was returning from a round trip to Yokohama; L. B. Blizzard Conditions in North Prevent Search for Northbound Flyers

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22 (CP).—The silence of the Northern wilderness tonight continued to hold the secret of the fate of William Grahsm and Mrs. Edna Christofferson, missing for a week in the uninhabited country between Nahlin and Atlin, in Northern British Columbia, and stormy weather was holding up a rescue flight planned by Pilot S. E. McMillan from Atlin.

Over the week-end a blizzard swept the district in which the missing pair is lost, and today storms continued and visibility was bad, preventing an aerial flight. The temperature was 27 degrees below zero.

A week ago today Graham and Mrs. Christofferson resumed their flight from Hazelton in their Arctic-bound plane with Atlin as their destination, but since later that day, when the plane was sighted over Nahlin, no word has been heard of them.

WILL RAISE FUNDS

PORTLAND, Feb. 22 (AP).—Plans for raising funds locally to make possible an air search for William R. Graham, Nome flyer, and Mrs. Edna Christofferson, of Portland, missing for seven days in their plane in the Atlin region, were discussed at a meeting here today.

The meeting was held in the office of Major Howard C. French, state aeronautics inspector. Eight friends of Mrs. Christofferson, including Chief of Police L. V. Jenkins of Portland, attended.

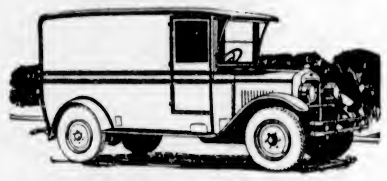

The group agreed to investigate the cost of making an air search and to raise the money needed through popular subscription, it was said. The possibility of sending a plane from Portland to prosecute the search is being considered.

Birthday Congratulations

Mrs. L. A. Heisterman, Who Is Celebrating Her Ninetieth Birthday Today at Her Home on Shasta Avenue.

NONAGENARIAN TO CELEBRATE

Mrs. L. A. Heisterman Will Be Ninety Today—Here Sixty Years

Birthday congratulations are due to Mrs. L. A. Heisterman, of 1521 Shasta Avenue, who today attains her ninetieth year. Surrounded by her family she is entertaining a number of friends this afternoon in honor of the occasion.

Mrs. Heisterman was born in Dedham, Maine, U.S.A., on February 23, 1842, her maiden name being Laura A. Haynes. She comes of a long-lived family which settled in that part of New England several generations before, and the stock must have been a rugged one, as her parents and all her sisters lived well into their eighties. In 1869 she came to British Columbia, and lived with her brother, the late George W. Haynes, at Moodyville, Mr. Haynes building the large saw mill there.

CAME TO VICTORIA

From there she came to Victoria, and in 1872 was married to the late H. F. Heisterman, the marriage being solemnized by the late Rev. Dr. McGregor, the then pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. From that time to the present she has continued to live in Victoria, and in her sixty years' residence here has seen the city grow from almost village proportions to its present dimension, and has won the affection and esteem of several generations of citizens.

Her husband predeceased her in 1896. She had seven children, four of whom are still living: B. S. Heisterman, Mrs. D. R. Ker, H. G. S. Heisterman and Miss O. Heisterman; also twelve grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Heisterman's great hobby has always been her garden, which she still enjoys, and which no doubt accounts for her excellent health and vitality at her age.

B.C. NURSES WIN DOMINION TESTS

High Percentage Attained by University of B.C. Students—Refresher Course Starts

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22.—Twenty-eight nurses from the University of British Columbia received first class ranking in an intelligence test conducted in a recent survey of nursing education in Canada. They attained 115 per cent in the examination, which was submitted to 2,280 nurses in 189 Canadian hospitals. In some of the provinces the results were poor, many of the students not having gone beyond grade six in public schools.

Dr. G. M. Weir, professor of education at the University of British Columbia, so announced today in addressing the opening refresher course for institutional nurses, under the auspices of the Graduate Nurses' Association of British Columbia. The course is being held in the training school at Vancouver General Hospital, and will continue for several days.

Crowds Cheer Prince as He Bids Farewell

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22 (AP). — Prince Lennart, a grandson of King Gustaf, started for London last night with his boyhood sweetheart, Karin Nisswandt, to be married in spite of royal disapproval.

The romance has touched the hearts of the Swedish people and a great crowd assembled at the station to wish the pair good luck, almost smothering the bride-to-be in flowers. The couple plan a honeymoon tour of Europe and will then live in a castle on an island in Lake Constance, Switzerland.

The prince will lose his royal prerogatives and his tenuous rights to the throne, inasmuch as King Gustaf has refused his consent to the marriage unless his grandson agreed to a long delay. Miss Nisswandt is not of royal blood.

Father-in-Law Will Appreciate Menus

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—"Lovely Food" is the title of a book by Ruth Lowinsky. Here are some of her menus:

Menu 1 — Chosen to create a favorable impression on a father-in-law, who comes prepared to judge you as either the laziest housekeeper in Europe, or the most extravagant, or even a subtle combination of the two: Clear mushroom consomme, smelts a la tartare, Roman chicken, meringues a la Suisse. Menu 5 — A short theatre dinner for not more than four people. Herrings a la turque, chicken souffle, iced camembert. Menu 8—It is useful occasionally to have a cold or semi-cold supper, which the cook can prepare before she goes out, and which can be easily served from a lift, without a parlormaid: Spinach soup, herring salad, cutlets in aspic, strawberry shortcake.

Mrs. Lowinsky does not confine herself to dinners, but gives some useful hints on garnishes for teas, a page or two on picnics and shooting luncheons and English puddings; and concludes with one piece of good advice: Keep a dinner diary, with a separate page for each meal, on which you enter the date of your party, the names of your guests and what you gave them to eat and drink; and if the hostess adds what dress she was wearing on the occasion it may save her much thought the next time the same visitors are present, or apprenhension that she may be repeating herself.

The winners at whist were: First, Mrs. Slaughter; second, Mrs. Kennell; third, Mrs. Watson; consolation, Mrs. Booker. Mrs. Hunter won the peanut contest.

There were many and varied fancy costumes, and after a close vote Mrs. Clarke was pronounced the winner.

Women Act as Cooks and Seamstresses in Northland

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22 (CP).—Help of women in the Arctic exploration is a real need, Sir Hubert Wilkins, distinguished explorer, believes. In reminiscent mood, Sir Hubert gave several amusing and specific instances of this need in an address to the Women's Canadian Club here recently.

Stefansson, he said, found that fur clothing worn by Eskimos was the proper type for Arctic wear, that no European-fashioned garments were so comfortable and suitable. To have those warm fur clothes, it was necessary to have Eskimo women in the party, because they alone had the ability to fashion them properly. These women also were the cooks for the party, because they alone knew how to prepare the food of the country in a tasty way.

Just before the take-off on Sir Hubert's memorable flight over the North Pole, a twenty-one-year-old girl stowaway was found. "She was a journalist," Sir Hubert remarked, and he wondered what would have happened had she succeeded in her venture, since at the other end of the 600-mile flight was another girl who was to have exclusive rights to the story.

Reports on Plans For Conservative Dance Are Given

It was learned that a six-piece orchestra has been obtained for the event and the arrangements for serving refreshments are in capable hands. A number of good entertainment offerings will be given and an enjoyable time is insured for all who attend.

On Sunday, several Guides attended a "Guides' Own" at Duncan, held by Miss Denny in honor of the chief's birthday.

WOMEN ARE GOOD ESTATE MANAGERS

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP).—There is one profession for women at least which is not overcrowded, and in which women have a great advantage over men. Corporations and minor bodies all over England have been most active in recent years in the establishment of new housing estates for wage earners.

According to Miss M. M. Jeffery, of the Crown Lands Office, thirty-two municipalities had engaged women for the management of these estates and more were needed.

Qualification for the work was now possible through the examination arranged by the Chartered Surveyors' Institution. It was easier for women than men to go into houses at all times. A woman tenant would more readily convey her troubles to another woman, so that the woman manager could get at facts more directly when difficulties arose.

The Bishop of London told the Church Assembly of certain exhibits which several housing associations staged at Westminster recently. "We had actually rats produced which had come out of the sewers in Stepney, and were found sitting by the babies' cradles."

are famous

"I use Magic Baking Powder," says Miss Lillian Loughton, Dietitian and Cookery Expert of the Canadian Magazine. "My successful baking results are due in large part to its freshness, uniformity, and consistent high quality.

"My own recipes are planned for Magic, and I recommend it for all recipes calling for baking powder."

Miss Loughton's high praise confirms the judgment of other Canadian dietitians and cookery experts. The majority of them use Magic exclusively, because it gives consistently better baking results.

Magic is first choice of Canadian housewives, too. It outsells all other baking powders combined.

CHAPTER XII

At eight-twenty Fabia in a gown she had never worn before, with nothing over the shoulders but narrow straps of rhinestones, and cut so low in the back it had been necessary to perform an operation on her brassiere, at the eleventh hour, was standing in the Boynton's drawing-room feeling more exposed than ever in her life before. This dress was much lower than the all-over one of last night. Fabia was used to abbreviated bathing suits, but it was different under a roof, in a drawing-room, surrounded by much fine needle-point, and a lot of strangers.

There were many mirrors in the Boynton drawing-room. Fabia saw bare arms and backs swarming around her on all sides. Whether the bare arms and backs were her own or not, she wasn't sure, but she felt as if all the nakedness in the room was hers, and that she must carry it off with no trace of self-consciousness. She did hope the eleventh-hour operation was holding well, and that the narrow rhinestone bands over her shoulders still concealed her brassiere straps.

Fabia had not eaten anything since her breakfast. Her head ached slightly, and she was aware of a queer, light, floating feeling, as if she had slipped out of her body, which still remained on terra firma, and was above it, looking down. It seemed to her as if the reflection opposite her, which was undeniably hers, belonged to somebody she knew hardly better than the other girls around her, none of whom she could call by name.

Almost immediately after Fabia arrived, a butler appeared with a trayful of cocktail glasses filled to the brim. He offered the tray to Fabia first, as she stood nearest the door. Fabia had never been offered a trayful of cocktail glasses before. She hesitated. Her mother had told her she thought it would be better taste to refuse cocktails—anyway, for the time being, just out of school as she was, and in view of Grandmother Vale's attitude. But would it not be awkward if she were the only girl tonight to refuse? She took a glass, holding it gingerly as if it might explode. But she needn't have felt any hesitation. Several of the girls refused cocktails. Several of the boys, too. It was the same with the cigarettes. Fabia had never learned to manipulate a cigarette with confidence. She felt sure she couldn't manage it while holding a cocktail-glass. Her refusal of the cigarette, however, caused no embarrassment. Some smoked, some didn't. Cocktails and cigarettes were regarded casually, it appeared, by these young people.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Boynton received their daughter's guests (there were eighteen in all), but when the party moved on into the dining-room, Mr. and Mrs. Boynton disappeared.

Fabia had not drunk her cocktail. One swallow had been sufficient. It tasted exactly like all the cocktails she had ever sampled. Her father served cocktails when there were dinner guests in spite of Grandmother Vale's attitude, but he served them sparingly, and only because it seemed necessary as a convention. Fabia and June had often stolen into the deserted living-room after the guests had moved out to dinner, to find out what the stuff Grandmother Vale thought so wicked tasted like. Like paregoric, Fabia thought. She hated it. Like rosewater and glycerine, June said, and pretended to want more.

It was fortunate Fabia disliked the taste of cocktails, for she was ignorant of the effect of them on an empty stomach. A tall, blonde boy, with a bad complexion, had finished Fabia's cocktail on top of two of his own. It made him very talkative. Fabia was glad of that. He sat on one side of her at the table, and she didn't have to make any effort at all. Just listen, and laugh a little. His conversation was punctuated with "gee's," and "goshes," and his favorite adjectives were "nifty," "swell," and "rotten." He'd had a swell time at Fabia's dance. It was a nifty party. A knock-out. But say, did she go to the Pendleton dance last week in Hamilton? Gosh! Lousy! A perfect flop. And was she at tea this afternoon? No? Well, be thankful. Rotten. All cluttered up with old women. He was going to cut out teas after this.

This young man, however, lasted only fifteen minutes. The girl on his other side—a girl with a laugh that was high and infectious—commanded his attention for the entire rest of the meal. This left Fabia stranded for one hour and twenty minutes with a big, dark, bovine-looking boy on her other side, with a perfect complexion, but unresourceful in conversation. In twenty minutes Fabia had exhausted all six of the subjects June had said were possibilities in a case of desperate necessity. Automobiles; he didn't drive one. Airplanes; he'd never taken a flight. Dude ranches; he'd never been west of Chicago. Athletic activities; he had a weak heart. Last Summer's activities; tutoring at the "Widow's." Good shows lately seen; none.

She drank frequent sips of water to cover up her ill-at-easeness, and ate many nuts, hoping the others at the table were not observing her. Strange that this big, harmless boy could reduce her to such a state of helplessness. She left resentful towards him.

The bovine boy became an entirely different creature in the drawing-room, however. To Fabia's chagrin, in the company of the girl with the infectious laugh, he was actually vivacious. They occupied a sofa together and she fed him bits of the soft filling of a chocolate cream which she dug out with the handle of an after-dinner coffee-spoon. She put a little on his cheek and made him get it with his tongue. It amused him terrifically. As Fabia observed them, she saw already the handwriting on the wall. She would never be a social success. Oh, why not avoid a long-drawn-out demonstration of her failure? How was she to endure a whole season of evenings such as this, to be followed by worse ordeals in a ballroom?

Fabia was observing the chocolate-cream operation from an armchair which she had selected when she had entered the drawing-room because it was remote. Suddenly she was conscious that one of the boys was approaching.

"You don't remember me," he said; "I thought I was making an impression at your dance last night, but evidently I didn't even make a dent. You've given me the icy stare all evening."

"I'm sorry," said Fabia. "What is your name?"

"Well, at least you're honest with me. So I'll be with you. Haverford is my name."

"Oh, really? How funny!"

"Why funny?"

"Because I've been talking about you today!"

"Oh, you're doing better now."

"I know now perfectly well that you danced with me last night more than once."

"And how did you discover that?"

"Somebody told me you did."

"Somebody told you I did! Say, that's good!"

Fabia flushed. How tactless she had been!

"I'm sorry," she said and shrugged.

Oh, if he would only go! If only McKay would come! The maids were beginning to set up card tables. Fabia stood up. Her chair was in the way.

"I suppose," said young Haverford, "you are engaged for supper tonight?"

Fabia gave him one of her rare smiles. How nice of him when she had just been so clumsy! "I'm sorry, but I'm not going to the dance."

"Why not?"

"My mother said I needn't tonight." She stopped. How childish to tell him that—as if she were still in the nursery.

"Don't you want to go?"

"No, I don't," she said bluntly. "I don't think I shall like the dances."

"You're a funny girl. Then, after a pause. "Do come to the dance tonight. I'll see you have a good time, though I know that isn't necessary, and I'll take you home afterwards. Telephone your mother you've changed your mind."

"I think I won't, but it's awfully nice of you."

"Well, then," pursued young Haverford, who so seldom pursued, "let me take you home from here, and I'll cut the dance myself, as I intended to, as I ought to. I have my car outside."

"But I'm to be called for at eleven by our chauffeur."

"Well, you can tell him you don't need him, can't you?"

"I suppose so, but—please—I think I'd rather not." She was very definite.

Young Haverford shrugged. "Oh, well, all right," he said. He was not used to being turned down.

Fabia was unaware she had turned him down. Unaware, too, that she was passing by an opportunity that any debutante in Boston that Fall would have jumped at. Tuck Haverford was the lion of the Boynton dinner-party. He was usually the lion of any dinner-party he accepted. They were few, such were the rigors of training. An injury received in practice had laid him off the football battlefield for the last fortnight. But the very fact that June had said that Tuck Haverford was a celebrity made Fabia thankful she had an excuse to side-step an evening with him. She simply could not endure any more tests tonight. She wanted to be alone, to escape. Memories were rushing in upon her with terrific force now, and they burst like blood rushing into veins through which circulation has been temporarily suspended.

She drew a great sigh of relief, once safely in the back of the limousine, the door closed upon her. At last she could face what had happened this afternoon. At last—she was very tired. She had slept but three brief hours in thirty-six.

McKay had to shake her gently, to wake her up when they arrived at the front door. In her own room, without turning on the light, she slipped out of her dress, crawled into bed, and almost instantly fell into a deep, long sleep.

Good looks aren't always luck

Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health.

The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN furnishes blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

HELPS KEEP YOU FIT

Just Roamin' Around

BY TWO ROVERS

"As Rover and I intend, like all good music lovers, to go to the Royal Victoria Theatre on either Friday or Saturday next, or both (if we have the price) to see 'The Bohemian Girl,' that entrancingly melodious opera written by the famous Irish composer, Michael William Balfe, we are off, right now, to the first combined rehearsal of the principals, chorus and ballet, and will later record our impressions."

Dear Mr. Editor: I, Rover, found the above note and several more on my master's desk, which I enclose (the notes, not the desk); for there's surely something wrong with my boss! I just can't make him out. In truth, he's out, right now, when he ought to be in typin' our Roverism for The Daily Colonist.

We went, all right, to the rehearsal, and I think "The Bohemian Girl" has turned his head; he's acted kind of funny ever since. So, I have grabbed all the scribbled notes he made and will try to give you a cameo of the story of sweet Arline, the heroine of the opera, from those notes.

"THE BOHEMIAN GIRL"

(1) The libretto of this lovely opera came from the pen of Alfred Bunn, who was manager of Drury Lane Theatre, and whose nickname was Good Friday, because he was a "Hot, Cross Bun."

(2) (Hope the management of the R.V.Tr. put the word-writer's name on the programmes; why shd composer, only, get the credit and kudos?)

(3) Bunn had already collaborated with Balfe in "The Maid of Artois." (We shd speak of Bunn and Balfe just as we do of Gilbert and Sullivan!)

(4) First name given work was "The Gipsy.' Then "Thaddeus of Warsaw" was suggested. "La Bohemienne" was next proposed. Someone wisely objected to a French name, so "The Bohemian" was decided upon—but it indicated a male character; so—(notes illegible here)—final choice of title: one that immediately brings joy to all lovers of Balfe's superb setting of Alfred Bunnn's lovely words in so many of the songs and choruses—was "The Bohemian Girl."

lovers of Balfe's superb setting of Alfred Bunn's lovely words in so many of the songs and choruses—was "The Bohemian Girl."

(5) (Look up story of libretto. Make it short and snappy. . . close with lines to the Gipsy Queen, or Arline, or Devilshoof—and kick Rover out of the room if he gets gay—Yes! come in! No! Am too busy—well, I'll come, and do my work when I get back——)" End of notes.

And, believe or don't, Mr. Editor, he hasn't shown up since! So I hope you can make head or tail of these pencilled jottings, and room for my Master's lines—"Then We'll Remember Thee!"

TO ARLINE

Gentle Singer! Oft we hear thee,
When thy voice in melody doth rise;
With the music ever blending,
Bringing happiness unending,
As we gaze into thy pretty eyes!

Gentle Singer! Oft we see thee,
When thy face with happy smiles is bright;
Thou hast made e'en cares seem charming;
Shadows fleas; thy smiles disarming
All the darkness of the dreary night!

Gentle Singer! We all love thee,
When sad tears from thy dear eyelids fall;
We, who love thee sweetly singing,
To thy hearers gladness bringing,
Do love thee, sorrowing, best of all!

INDIANS ARE FINED FOR NIGHT ASSAULT

For breaking into a cabin in Theatre Alley early Sunday morning and assaulting the occupant, Quon Bing, Alexander Thomas and John Modist, Indians, appeared before Police Magistrate George Jay in city police court yesterday morning. They pleaded not guilty.

The evidence showed that the two men had gone to the cabin, broken in the door and grappled with Bing, who suffered a small cut on his chin. He said it was a knife wound.

Both Indians were found guilty, and for breaking the door they were each fined $10 and $1.25 costs, and for the assault on Bing, $5 or five days

Stretch $1 as far as $3 when fighting sore throat colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

OUT of every $3 you spend for ordinary mouth antiseptics you might as well save $2. It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth washes—by adding water it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath. Here's the great difference between old-fashioned mouth washes and Pepsodent Antiseptic. The old-fashioned mouth wash must be used full strength to be effective—but three people out of four add water to their mouth wash. So the new discovery—Pepsodent Antiseptic—was made powerful enough to be diluted and still be effective—yet it is completely safe when used full strength. It's costly enough to use a mouth wash that should be used full strength. But it's a lot more costly to fail to dilute that mouth wash and kill the germs. That's why we warn you to choose an antiseptic that kills germs when diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe. Safeguard health and save your money.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

HOOLEY SMITH STILL LEADING N.H.L. SCORERS

Crippled Maroon Forward Tops Point Makers in Canadian Section

BILL COOK HIGH IN AMERICAN LOOP

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (CP).—Although out of play, "Hooley" Smith, of Montreal Maroons, still leads the point-makers of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League with 38, according to statistics issued tonight. Just one behind is Harvey Jackson, Toronto Leafs' left winger. His teammate, Joe Primeau, has 35 points, one better than Dave Trottier, of Maroons.

During the week four Maroon players added five points each to their totals. They are Trottier, Northcott, Siebert and Ward. In addition, Trottier leads the entire league in penalties, having served 80 minutes, while Johnson, of the Rangers, is close behind with 78.

Bill Cook, of New York Rangers, continues to lead the United States division in point-making with 33, only two in front of his teammate, Cecil Dillon, while Dit Clapper, of the Bruins, is close on the latter's heels with 30 points.

Prince George Icemen Defeat Maccabees, 5-2

MERRITT, Feb. 22.—Following up their smashing victory over Merritt on Thursday, Prince George puck-chasers downed Vancouver Maccabees here on Saturday in the first game of the British Columbia Intermediate playdowns by a 5-2 score.

The Vancouver squad were completely "at sea" on the smaller ice sheet. With plenty of speed and tricky combination, it was quite evident that they felt crowded, and the bullet shots of Franks and Drake went wide of their mark. At the same time, Prince George are a real snappy aggregation, and a team to be reckoned with at any time.

Three Victorians Asked to Play in Vancouver Match

CAMPBELL Forbes, Frank Skillings and Bill Wharton have been asked to play in the All Canada-Vancouver "rep" Rugby match at Vancouver Saturday afternoon. This match will be one of the two in which the All-Canada team will play, the other being scheduled here for March 2.

CANADIENS TAKE LEAD FROM LEAFS

Habitants Gain Draw With Falcons to Go to Top Again

AMERICANS DOWN NEW YORK RANGERS

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Canadiens are back on the top rung of the Canadian division of the National Hockey League today after an uphill struggle in Detroit last night, when they gained a 1-1 tie with Jack Adams' Falcons. The single point garnered by the world champions left them half a game in front of Toronto Maple Leafs, who were blanked 3-0 on Saturday by the upclimbing Montreal Maroons.

Detroit also benefited by the division of points and took possession of third place in the American section a point in front of Boston Bruins, who dropped a 2-1 decision to Black Hawks in Chicago. New York Americans recorded the other victory of the four-game week-end programme by snapping out of a lengthy losing streak and defeating their fellow-townsmen, Rangers.

Forcing the play from the opening gong, Canadiens battled Falcons through seventy minutes of grueling hockey to a one-all verdict. Frank Carson squirmed his way through the entire habitant squad for the only Falcon marker, early in the initial stanza.

While the flying Frenchmen had a noticeable edge in play they were unable to penetrate the strong Detroit rearguard until late in the middle period, when Aurel Joliat slipped a neat pass over to Howie Morenz to knot the count.

AMERICANS WIN

Bolstered by the addition of Roy Burmeister from New Haven Eagles of the Canadian-American League, Americans ended a six-game losing streak in New York, when they chalked up their first triumph of the season over Rangers.

Facing a goal deficit less than a minute after play commenced, Americans forced the play, and on a pair of quick goals by Burmeister and Jackie Keating, earned a lead, before Joe Lamb beat Worters and before Johnson came through with the last goal of the game, the final score being 3 to 2.

BLACK HAWKS CLIMB

Black Hawks grabbed possession of second place in the American section with a 2-1 triumph over Boston Bruins. The game was exciting from beginning to end, with the majority of thrills being provided by Eddie Shore, rugged Boston defence man, who finished the game in the penalty box, serving a match penalty after attacking Cooper Smeaton.

Two goals in the second period, both on plays by Johnny Gottselig, gave Chicago their early margin. However, Bruins finished with a burst of speed and Charlie Gardiner saw his fourth shutout of the year pass by when Harry Oliver split the defence and beat him with an ankle-high drive.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT - - - - - - - By Ripley

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Washington's Bicentenary—The year 46 B.C. had fourteen months, two supernumerary months having been added by Julius Caesar to initiate the Julian Calendar Reform.

When George Washington was born the date was February 11, 1731, and England and its colonies were still observing the old Julian calendar, in which the year began not on January 1 but on March 25. The Father of our Country was twenty years old (1751) when the English Parliament finally adopted the Gregorian calendar, by clipping eleven days off September, 1752. In addition the beginning of the year was advanced to January 1. It is an error to make the calendar reform retroactive by celebrating Washington's Birthday on February 22, instead of eleven days earlier. And the same wrong application of chronological retroactivity is made in the celebration of Washington's Bicentenary in 1932, instead of 1931.

The Short Circuit Beetle—The Short Circuit Beetle (Latin name Scobicia Declivis) is so called because of its habit of boring numerous holes in the aerial lead telephone cables. Short circuit is then caused by moisture entering the cable. The activity of the beetle entails great expense and trouble to the telephone companies.

YOUTH MAY APPEAR ON NET SQUAD

Fifteen-Year-Old Boy May Play With Davis Cup Tennis Team

HAS UNORTHODOX STYLE OF PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—If reports reaching the United States from the Antipodes are not overly optimistic, the United States tennis world next Summer may see a fifteen-year-old youngster on the Australian Davis Cup team who uses both hands in hitting his backward shot. His name is Vivian McGrath.

A stockily built, good-looking chap, this fifteen-year-old with the unorthodox style has been mowing down high-class fields in his Winter campaign (Summer to Australians), and is touted by The Sydney Referee as a sure bet for the Australian Davis Cup team, challenging this year in the North American zone.

"This boy has had to overcome all the prejudices of the high priests of orthodoxy," says The Referee, "because he wields his racquet on the backhand as he would a cricket bat—with both hands. It simply isn't done, they said. But McGrath has done it and is still doing it."

There appears to be only one sure player for the Australian Davis Cup team—Jack Crawford — already proven in international competition on the Continent and at Wimbledon. Crawford was among the world's best while playing abroad two years ago.

GARRISON AND BAYS TO MEET

Strong Clubs Will Battle in Midweek Soccer Tomorrow—C.P.R. to Tackle Saanich

The Hudson's Bay-Garrison fixture will be the feature. The Bays are right on the heels of the leading Navy team, and a victory will put them in front. Garrison are in third place and a win will put them ahead of the departmentals. C.P.R. will be out for their first victory at the expense of the youthful Saanich eleven.

Two Rugby Games Will Be Played Here on Saturday

TWO senior Rugby games will be played Saturday afternoon. At Oak Bay Park the leading Canadian Scottish will tackle J.B.A.A., while at Canteen grounds 5th Brigade and Navy will meet. Both games will start at 3 o'clock.

WINNIPEGS WIN EASY VICTORY

Olympic Hockey Champions Defeat Bronx Hockey Club Ten Goals to Three

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (CP). — Fresh from a smashing victory over the Crescents A.C., the Winnipegs Hockey Club proved why they are Olympic champions by decisively defeating the Bronk Hockey Club 10 to 3, at the Coliseum today. The Bronx team seemed content to try to hold the score down as low as possible, but their defence collapsed before the speedy drive of the Canadians.

The Pegs took the upper hand from the start, with five goals swishing into the Bronx net, and then coasted along, adding another pair in the second period. The New Yorkers threw all caution aside as they sailed into a five-man offensive in the third period and scored all three of their goals, but the Canadians evened these with another trio.

Walter Monson sent in three goals in the opening period, and Norm Malloy and Romeo Rivers counted one each.

In the second frame the Canadians scored on goals by Hack Simpson and Hugh Sutherland.

Two Local Stars Lead Qualifying Rounds in Midwinter Tournament

Turn In Best Gross and Net Cards of Medal Rounds—Wilson Has 71 and Mrs. Jackson 78—Toronto Takes Interdistrict Honors—Oak Bay and Colwood Teams Win Silverware

Shooting a fine brand of golf, considering the heavy fairways and lightning fast greens, J. Harold Wilson, Oak Bay Club, and Mrs. E. Jackson, Uplands, last year's finalist, carried off the medal honors in the fourth annual Empress midwinter tournament yesterday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club. Wilson played consistently throughout to head a large field with a gross card of 78, which his handicap of seven reduced to a net 71, while Mrs. Jackson shot close to women's par, scoring an 84 gross, which her handicap of six reduced to a net 78.

W. L. "Bill" McIntosh, last year's champion, found the going tough and failed to qualify. Miss Helen Wilson, defending champion, again made the select group, and will start the defence of her title today when match play starts.

Beautiful Spring weather greeted the large field, which included representatives from all parts of Canada, as far east as Montreal. The American entry is comparatively small, but is expected to be heard from before the tourney ends. Tricky greens and slow fairways shot the scores skyrocketing during both qualifying rounds. Harold Wilson was the only title-seeker to break into the seventies, while Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Philbrick were the only ones to get below 90.

TORONTO WINS

Paired with Jack Matson and Bob Morrison, Victoria, honorary members of the Lambton Club, of Toronto, Stanley Thompson and G. B. Heintzman carried away the Matson Cup, symbolic of the interdistrict team championship, to Toronto, with a total score of 653 for thirty-six holes medal play. Morrison was largely instrumental in Toronto's victory with a second round card of 74. Morrison's score was the lowest gross of the day. Victoria finished second with 663, and Vancouver was third with 721. Winnipeg finished in fourth position with 816, and Montreal came up in the rear with 822.

In winning the medal laurels, Harold Wilson had his clubs working to perfection. He went out in 40 and romped over the incoming journey in 38 for his fine round. Gordon Money finished right on the medalist's heels with a card of 81-9-72, and T. S. McPherson was third with 90-17-73. Dave Randall, Uplands youngster, entrenched himself in fourth position with 81-7-74, and R. H. B. Ker was fifth with 88-13-75. The remainder of the field was well bunched.

Harold Lineham, runner-up two years ago, had the second best gross of the medal round with a card of 80, going out in 39 and home in 41, while Jack Matson, Gordon Money and Dave Randall had 81's. Bob Morrison, city and Uplands champion, and runner-up last year, found the greens hard to solve and had an 86; while Stanley Thompson, burly golfer from Toronto, finished with an 86. Considering the Eastern contingent were playing on a strange course, their cards were good.

SHOOTS GOOD GOLF

Mrs. Jackson found the course to her liking and burnt up the fairways from the start. She started out with 5, 4, 6, and rounded the turn in 42. The Uplands star continued her fine golf on the inward route and came home in the same figures. Miss B. Northwood, of Winnipeg, was tied for second place with her sister, Miss R. Northwood, with similar cards of 102-22-80. Miss Laura Audain was bracketed in third place with Mrs. A. McBean, Winnipeg, with net 81's, while Mrs. Philbrick was fourth with 89-7-82. Mrs. Vera Hutchings, British Columbia champion, found the layout hard and turned in a 90-3-87. Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, city champion, was out in 48 and back in 47 for a 95, which her handicap of seven reduced to a net 87.

By her medal victory, Mrs. Jackson won the Victoria Rotary Cup, which was captured last year by Mrs. Hutchings. Colwood's strong team won the women's team match with a total of 358, and Oak Bay walked off with the men's team match with a score of 297. Oak Bay was second in the women's and Colwood second in the men's.

Match play will start this morning and will continue all week, with the finals carded on Saturday. Play in the men's open event will commence this afternoon with eight first stringers competing. Officials stated yesterday that the final of this event must be completed by Friday afternoon. Harold Wilson, Gordon Money, Bob Morrison, W. Charlton, Jack Matson, G. B. Heintzman, Harold Lineham, Ralph Rogers, Stanley Thompson and J. P. Alexander will face the starter in the open.

ALL-CANADA RUGBY TEAM RETURNS FROM JAPAN

PLAYERS LAUD FINE HOSPITALITY SHOWN BY JAPANESE PEOPLE

Canadian Ruggers Extended Great Courtesies During Tour of Japan—Seven Games Attracted Over 130,000 Spectators—Forty Thousand Watched Final Match Against All-Japan

Magnificent Trophy Presented to Dominion Union by Japan Body

With every player looking the picture of health, glad to be back home again and with the highest words of praise for the hospitality shown them by the Japanese people, the All-Canada English Rugby team arrived in Victoria yesterday morning on board the Empress of Asia after a two months' tour of Japan. The players were met at the dock by members of the local union and a host of friends and relatives.

Members of the team spoke highly of the entertainments tendered them during their sojourn in the Orient, and termed the Japanese "the finest hosts in the world." The six local players left the ship here while the rest of the party proceeded to Vancouver with the ship just before noon.

When a Colonist reporter, who journeyed in the cold dawn of the morning to William Head to meet the ship, arrived within hailing distance of the great white liner, the players were lined on the upper deck and immediately a barrage of questions was started. "How do the Scottish stand," queried the members of the Canadian Scottish, and "how about the 5th Brigade" was the question of members of the gunners' fifteen. Told that Victoria had defeated Vancouver, 6-3, here Saturday to even up the McKechnie Cup series, whoops of joy arose from the Victoria players.

ASK MANY QUESTIONS

When the quarantine tender reached the side of the ship and doctors, officials and the reporter had climed up the rope ladder and onto the vessel, players swarmed around the news gatherer, and in the space of half an hour a hundred and one questions, covering everything in general but chiefly concerning sport, were asked and answered.

Vancouver players were particularly anxious about the weather, and wanted to know whether or not to pack up their rubbers and umbrellas before reaching there. They were advised not to pack them.

"How much snow is there over there," queried Captain Len Leroy. He was informed that there had been plenty but that it had gone.

"We had a wonderful trip and the greatest thrill of our lives," were the general expressions. "The Japanese treated us like a bunch of princes, and the hospitality tendered us was beyond our wildest expectations," Jack Tyrwhitt, coach of the team, said.

COACH PRAISES BOYS

Tyrwhitt was loud in praise of the way the boys behaved during the tour. "They are the finest bunch of boys one could ever hope to meet and travel with, and believe me, they made a great impression with the Nippons. They trained faithfully and gave their best in every game, and were the easiest lot to handle I have ever come across."

Questioned about the disastrous defeat in the last game against All-Japan, Tyrwhitt had no allbis to offer. "We were beaten by a better team, but our boys put up a game struggle against their powerful and finely-trained opponents. We were a tired lot before the game and the heavy schedule (a game practically every three days), the vast amount of entertainments and injuries took their toll, but we had our strongest fifteen out," Tyrwhitt said.

"The Japanese have greatly improved since they visited British Columbia last year, and we learnt quite a lot from them. They are exceedingly fast and tricky and their backs pass and receive the ball with the greatest of accuracy They play a great deal offside, and we were forced to resort to a forward game in all our matches to offset the speed of the Japanese back divisions. The refereeing was not any too good, but we haven't any kicks to offer."

HUGE CROWDS

Aside from their success in winning five of the seven games, there was the impressive fact that the team played before more than 130,000 spectators, including one crowd of over 40,000 and three of over 20,000. The games were the outstanding sporting attraction of Japan, to which the press, both vernacular and English-speaking, devoted many columns of space.

"The tour succeeded beyond any expectations we had," J. Fyfe Smith, president of the Dominion of Canada Rugby Union, said. "Rugger, with its lightning fast and open play, has made a tremendous appeal to the Japanese, and out of their large university attendances and athletic clubs, they have been able to develop the game to a high standard.

"The Japanese teams are very fast on the ball, and the way they heel it in the loose is a treat," he said.

During one of the many entertainments, a magnificent cup was presented to the Dominion Rugby Union by Mr. Tamura, formerly of Vancouver, and president of the Japanese Rugby Union. This cup is one of the finest trophies of its kind and is made of copper and cloisonne. It is twenty-two inches high and the carving is intertwined to represent the growth of a cherry and maple tree, symbolic of Canada and Japan. It cost about $350. This trophy is expected to be put up for interprovincial competition.

TO VISIT A..AIN

The Dominion head stated that a Japanese team would make another trip to Canada within the next few years and that a crew of oarsmen would accompany them.

Every member of the team was showered with various gifts, but the most prized was the plaque in the form of china plate presented them by the Japanese Rugby Union. The plaque is worked in cloisonne and has a design of cherry blossoms and maple leaves. On the back is engraved "Presented to All-Canada Rugby Team by Japan Rugby Union.

During the last game, players and officials were presented to Crown Prince Chichibu. At this game, ten Princes and Princesses were in attendance, accompanied by a staff of court officials. Thousands of soldiers and sailors were in the stadium.

Coach Tyrwhitt stated that the Japanese were very reticent in discussing the trouble with China and would not make any statements. He said that the streets of the principle cities had a very military appearance with thousands of soldiers and sailors in uniform.

NOTABLE VICTORY

Probably the most notable achievement of the Canadian invasion was the 21-8 victory over Meiji University. This game was perhaps as great, if not a greater, attraction than those against All-Japan, as Meiji were intercollegiate champions and steam-rollered other Japanese universities in five games to the tune of 218 points to thirty scored against them. The Canadians, in the peak of their form, handled them in decisive fashion. They also defeated All-East Japan, 16-6.

In the other three games, against Waseda, Doshisha and Kyoto Universities, the Canadians won by large scores. In all, Canada scored 150 points against 82 for the Japanese. Their scorers and points made by them follow: George Niblo, Vancouver, '41; Ernest Pinkham, Vancouver, and Campbell Forbes, Victoria, 18 each; Frank Skillings, Victoria, 15; George Warnock, Victoria, 9; Bud Murray, Vancouver, 7; Len Leroy, Vancouver; Ivor Saundry, Vancouver, and Jerry Boone, Toronto (vice-captain), 6 each; Eric Cameron, Vancouver; Pete Wilson, Vancouver; Arthur Lungley, Vancouver; Bonnie Gay, Winnipeg; Sydney Selkirk, Toronto; A. Mitchell, Vancouver; Brian Hunnings, Victoria; Bill Wharton, Victoria, three each.

Other players mentioned as playing brilliantly were G. E. Cox, Montreal; C. Battye, Toronto; Johnny Rowlands, Victoria; Bart Du Temple, Vancouver, and Jack Bain, Vancouver. Other players who bore their part in the struggles were Bob Normington, Vancouver; Tubby Suter, Montreal; G. Richards, Moose Jaw, and C. H. Read, Winnipeg.

Doctor Dick's Letter Box

TIM MATSON

Dear Doctor,

I'm giving a huge dinner party this week, and have penchants toward oyster patties. Trouble is, there are two "R's" in February, and as I've been brought up to believe that oysters should be ignored if there is an "R" in the month—well, don't you see—I'm in a sort of crisis or anticlimax?

I love oyster patties! I do, Doctor, I love them truly—so do my guests! I want oyster patties badly. Is there anything in it, about the "R"? Please advise.

MRS. C. FOUDE.

My Dear Mrs. Foude,

I know very little about oysters, except that when devouring them raw—well, I've never actually bitten one YET, and I think the only way to prevent them ricocheting unscathed past the uvula is to eat them standing on one's head.

But I imagine the "R" business is a little overdone. Probably, in the middle of one long-forgotten September, some dear old lady caught an oyster at dawn; secreted it in her fourth petticoat; wandered around in the sun all day; remembered it at bedtime; then ate it; then . . . (Whoops, dearie! Can't you just see the silly old thing?)

So there you are, Mrs. Foude. I hope I'm right, and not indirectly nudging you toward an untimely doom.

Have you entered the C.P.R. Golf Tournament? Do you think Miss Helen Wilson and Mr. Bill MacIntosh will win again? Or do you think that Miss Wilson, out of consideration to others, will shorten her drives from 463 yards 6¾ inches to 327 yards 3½ inches—and that Mr. MacIntosh will concede 175-foot putts and take his tee shots, with his hat covering up his ball, for the same reason?

Anyway, let's hope they all win it—I'm quite Communistic about prizes—so is a friend of mine in Uganda. Good-bye, dear.

Lovingly,

D.D.

HEAVY CRICKET SCORE PILED UP

Jamaica Registers 702 Runs for Five Wickets Against Touring English Side

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 22 (AP).—Cricket history was written here today when the team of the Colony of Jamaica scored 702 runs for the loss of only five wickets against a powerful team of English cricketers, and declared their first innings closed at that point.

The Englishmen, a collection of county and international players, gathered for the trip under the captaincy of Lord Tennyson, responded with 185 runs for the loss of three wickets before darkness ended play for the day. The match will continue until Wednesday evening. The Englishmen found themselves facing the disgrace of a first-inning defeat unless they solved the bowling of their hosts tomorrow and Wednesday.

The mantle of greatness descended upon two Jamaicans on Saturday and today. G. Headley, a member of the West Indies team which toured Australia in 1930, and Passailaigue, a newcomer to an international role although well known in the colony, made a stand which produced 344 runs for Headley and 261 for Passailaigue, both not out, when the innings was declared. Headley ranked second of the West Indians during their five-game test series with Australia, scoring 336 runs with an average of 37.33 runs per attendance at the wicket.

The mistake was not discovered until the player had made twenty-nine. McKittrick did not contest it and let Langdon continue.

Tonight the tourney will continue with A. S. G. Musgrave facing S. Dyke at 6:30 o'clock, and Harry Rochon will meet Tommy Dunlop at 8:30 o'clock.

STRIBLING TO MEET SCHAAF

Heavyweights Will Battle at New York Friday Night—Two Bouts Billed in South

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP).—W. L. (Young) Stribling comes out of semi-retirement this week to see if he can discover what makes Ernie Schaaf go.

The Georgian battles Schaaf, one of the best of the younger contenders, Friday night.

Schaaf, who has waded steadily through the crop of hopefuls, is not a crowd pleaser, but he gets results. He is a punishing hitter and seems to have all the stamina he needs.

Stribling, himself a leading heavyweight contender for years, now becomes the yardstick by which Schaaf's capabilities can be measured.

Ace Hudkins, once feared by the welterweights and middleweights, fights Lee Rammage, San Diego heavyweight, at Los Angeles tomorrow night. Prices Slip Lower With Freer Trading At Eastern Markets

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (CP).—Removal of "pegged" or minimum prices today on a number of issues on the Montreal Stock Exchange, and lowering of minimum prices on others, brought out two chief points of interest.

Bell Telephone slumped sharply to 107 1-2 in free trading and rallied to close at 110, off 9 points from its "peg," while Dominion Textile dropped to a low of 54 and a close of 55, off 8 1-4 points. Otherwise the list was quiet, with British Columbia Power, Steel of Canada and Montreal Steel Car, newly restored to the free list, showing fractional losses.

Canadian Pacific and Brazilian Traction held unchanged, while International Nickel climbed 1-8 to 9 1-4.

Four gains and seven losses were shown on the total trading of 3,866 shares.

Other losses were: Consolidated Smelter, off 1 at 69; McColl-Frontenac, off 1-4 at 9 1-2; National Steel Car, off 1-2 at 9 1-2; and Steel of Canada, off 3-4 at 11-4.

Cement preferred, up 3-4 at 64, Dominion Steel & Coal "B", up 1-4 at 2 1-2, and Canadian Industrial Alcohol, up 1-8 at 11-8, were issues to gain ground.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Lacking guidance from New York, the Toronto Stock Exchange drifted lower today, with turnover reduced to 6,133 shares. Adjustments following lifting of minimum prices on a number of issues accounted in part for the recessions. There were eight gains, against twenty-six losses and sixteen issues unchanged.

The most spectacular loss was that of Bell Telephone, which fell to a new low of 107 1-2, recovered partially to close at 110 3-4, off 9 1-4. Bell was placed on the "peg" trading list today. Brazilian Traction was off 1-8 to 13 3-4, and C.P.R. at 17 5-8 was off 1-4.

In the steel group, Page-Hersey was off 1 1-2 to 54 1-2, and Steel of Canada common lost 1-4 to 21, while the preferred lost 1 to a new low of 26. Ford was up 1-4 to 14 3-4.

International Nickel, with turnover of 1,277 shares, lost 1-4 to close at 9. Higher earnings were reported for British American Oil after the close of the market. It closed unchanged at 10 1-8. Imperial was unchanged and McColl-Frontenac was up 1-4 at 9 3-4.

Walker, at 3 1-4, was off 1-8. Distillers-Seagrams, at 3 3-4, was up 1-8.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Specialized trading in a few lower-priced issues today dominated the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. Market leaders were dull. Of the seventy-two issues called, twenty-three closed unchanged in price, twenty-two advanced and seventeen declined. Sales totaled 233,000 shares.

Eldorado, the feature with sales of 13,425 shares, closed up 8 points to $1.48. Lake Shore recovered 35c to $28.35, and Dome 5c to $10.25, while McIntyre fell 20c to a new low for the year at $17.05.

Noranda advanced 30c to $16.35, and International Nickel gained 15c to $9.15. In the oil section Imperial gained 10c to $9.90.

Receipts are light and of good quality and are being kept well cleaned up. Hogs: Hog receipts have been lighter, with the result of steady to firmer prices. Bacons are strong at 5c, with moderate receipts in sight for the coming week. Sheep: The lamb market showed considerable activity all week, with prices closing at 1-2c stronger. Top lambs are moving freely at $6.50.

TWO DEFUNCT GERMAN BANKS ARE INCLUDED IN NEW INSTITUTION

BERLIN, Feb. 22 (AP).—A new mammoth German banking institution, including a merger of the great Danat and Dresdener Banks, which have been in the hands of the Government for several months, was announced today.

The Danat merger contemplates an arbitrary reduction in the par value of its shares of 33 per cent of their original price which is to be applied against stock in the new bank. The new bank will be capitalized for 220,000,000 marks.

In financial circles it was said the mergers might mean the probable eclipse for the present at least of a number of financial leaders.

The Danat—Darmstadter and National Bank—of Bremen closed last Fall and marked the first major castastrophe leading to the German financial crisis.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Reddy Fox Is Hunted

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

In name of sport are dark things done.
When heartless cruelty is fun.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox was far from home. It was long since he had been so far from home in the Old Pasture on Farmer Brown's farm. But these were hard days with everything buried in snow, hard days, indeed, and hungry days. One must hunt far and wide to get enough food to keep alive. Reddy had known hard times in other Winters, but never one so hard as this. Only when he slept did he know what it was to be free from a feeling of gnawing emptiness in his stomach. Even then he dreamed of things to eat only to waken to the disappointment of finding them unreal.

So Reddy had taken to hunting far from home, leaving the familiar home hunting-grounds to Mrs. Reddy. Sometimes he would be gone for two or three days, curling up in some sheltered spot, his big tail protecting his nose and face, for the sleep he had to have. He was thin and lean and tired from much over-traveling, yet never could he get a full meal that would allow him to rest and regain his strength. Now and then he caught a Mouse. Once he caught a half-grown Rabbit, and would have carried it home to share with Mrs. Reddy but that the distance was too great. Farm after farm he visited in the hope of catching a fat hen, but it seemed as if all the farmers knew that he was about and were taking special care to keep their hens locked up.

Reddy had been hunting all night, with two small Mice his only reward. They were little enough to put in an empty stomach. Still, they were better than nothing and Reddy was thankful for even this little as he curled up at daybreak for the rest he greatly needed. He was tired, very tired, for in his half-starved condition he tired more easily than when well fed.

It seemed to him that he hardly had closed his eyes when he was awakened by a sound he knew only too well, the baying of a Hound. Reddy sat up to listen, his head cocked a trifle to one side.

"I hope that Dog isn't following my track," thought he. "I don't know this country about here well enough to be sure of fooling a Dog who has done much hunting, and if there are hunters with terrible guns out this morning, I haven't any idea where they are likely to be. Back home I know just where to expect them to be lying in wait and it is a simple matter to fool them.

So Reddy had taken to hunting far from home

And I'm tired. I don't feel like running. Oh, dear, I fear that Dog is on my trail."

In a few minutes he knew that his fear was well grounded. There was no doubt that that Dog was on his trail. The scent was cold, but there was enough of it left in Reddy's tracks for the Dog to get an occasional whiff of it, and each time he did so he would bay. Baying is, you know, the sound made by a Hound when he is following the track of someone.

Poor Reddy. It was bad enough to be tired and hungry. Now to have to run for his life seemed dreadful and his heart sank as he trotted off, for it would not do to allow that Dog to get too near. Reddy trotted along easily, for the Dog was coming slowly, having to work out that trail. So long as the scent was cold he would have to work slowly, but Reddy knew that once that Dog reached the place Reddy had just left the scent would be fresh, and then that Dog would be able to follow at full speed. So Reddy ran easily, saving his strength for the time he knew was surely coming when he would have to use all his speed to keep ahead of that Dog.

It was bad enough to have that Dog following him, but what worried Reddy most was the fear that somewhere hidden behind a tree or in the brush was a hunter with a terrible gun. He strongly suspected that that Dog wasn't hunting by himself and he was right. There was a hunter with a terrible gun, one who knew well all that country round about and just where a Fox would be most likely to run.

The next story: "Tricks That Were Useless."

THE BAKER'S DOZEN

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 22.—The eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth children were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Elias J. Salami. The new arrivals, two boys and a girl, weighed three pounds, one ounce; three pounds, two ounces; and three pounds, eleven ounces.

What Today Means

"PISCES"

If February 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a.m. to noon, from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7:40 a.m. to 8:50 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Astrological influences on February 23 will instill energy and enthusiasm, and an interesting and fruitful day is augured. Those who earn their bread by pen or tongue will be inspired to say something of which they may be proud. Those looking for romance will be sure to find it.

Children born on this February 23 will have thoughtful, industrious natures, and will be hard-headed and sane-thinkers. They will go through life with a rather cold and calculating spirit, always remembering "number one." They will be able to be both courteous and affable, or at other times blunt and boorish.

Born February 23, you are a very indipentent minded person and you always prefer to think things out for yourself. You may listen patiently to advice, but it usually follows that you carry out your own original intention. You do things spontaneously, and love doing things impromptu and unexpectedly. You crave wisdom, and worship things of the intellect. You are no straddler, and fearlessly stick up for your convictions. You are always able to win many adherents to your ideas, as you can express yourself clearly and forcefully and are so very honest and sincere.

You should always work under conditions that allow you freedom to do things in your own way and time. Your teaching ability is very pronounced, and you are always able to get along well with subordinates. You have considerable patience, and you do not talk above the heads of your audience.

Your are very logically-minded, and are very seldom inconsistent. You are capable of putting your finger on the weak point in any argument, leaving the other party with no "come back" You do not like superficial or "baby-minded" people, but you do like doers and thinkers. You have a real sense of humour and are quick on the "pick up" in a conversation. You are socialy inclined in an informal way and very readily make new friends.

Using Billboards For Advertising Pacific Northwest

Victoria will have the advantage this year in its publicity campaign of a number of billboards, which is part of the campaign adopted by the Puget Sounders and British Columbians, Associated, of which Victoria is a member. The plan of the associated in this move is to have an attractive display setting out the glories of the Pacific Northwest. It is proposed to have a number of these placed in strategic positions on the highways leading into Los Angeles where the Olympic Games are being held.

Continuing the display, billboards will be erected along the Pacific Highway so that all along the route travelers will be reminded of the beauties and attractions of Puget Sound and British Columbia. Of the fifty-one billboards erected, eight will be illuminated Seventeen will be located on what is known as Pacific Highway No. 99, in North Hollywood, Glendale, Redlands and other points. Fourteen will be distributed along the Coast route highway, near such towns as Santa Ana and Whittier. Four others will be allotted to the new Coast highway and eight will be placed along the inland route between Los Angeles and San Diego.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN

Reports of Export Business Give Price Stimulus at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22 (CP).—Aided by moderate export, wheat prices easily absorbed some light profit taking on the grain market here today to retain early advances and close another session of upswings. Values at the finish of a rather quiet market were 5-8 to 3-4 cent above Saturday's close.

In a market curtailed by the holiday in the United States, May and July futures each advanced 5-8 cent at 67 5-8 and 69 1-8 to 69 1-4, respectively. October delivery gained 5-8 to 3-4 cent at 71 1-8 to 71 1-4.

Reports of some export business worked at Vancouver supplied the stimulus for the upswing. Advices from Broomhall indicated Italy had raised its foreign wheat quota sharply. This was not officially confirmed, however.

Cash grains continued their indifferent trends of past weeks and, though some spreads were fractionally higher, closing differences were generally unchanged. Coarse grain futures lacked feature, and prices followed the actions of wheat in a dull market.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

USING ANIMAL EXTRACTS

I have spoken before about how amused we have been in past days as we read about the "medicine" men of native tribes who made up soup or medicine from the organs of animals. That these preparations had any virtue in them never was thought possible—just native superstition.

Yet what are we finding today?

Diabetes, that formerly incurable disease, is now kept under control by the use of a juice extracted from the pancreas of animals. What is lacking in the patient's pancreas is supplied by this juice, insulin.

Another incurable ailment, pernicious anaemia, is now cured by feeding the patient liver—calf's, beef, chicken—which acts as a blood-building food. Where liver itself does not agree with the patient, extract of liver gives satisfactory results. Lately it has been found that still another organ will cure pernicious anaemia by building up the blood, the lining of hog's stomach.

Where the bile is not being produced in sufficient quantity, the addition of bile salts from animals has been helpful, as have other of the digestive juices.

The unfortunate part about the necessity of using these products from animals is that the patient himself doesn't know that there is anything wrong with him until real damage has been done.

When trouble just begins there are not usually any outstanding signs by which the patient or even the physician can recognize it. The patient begins to feel less desire to work or play, just doesn't feel like it. Disagreeable sensations arise, at first not very plain or definite, but later becoming more readily recognized, and so he seeks advice.

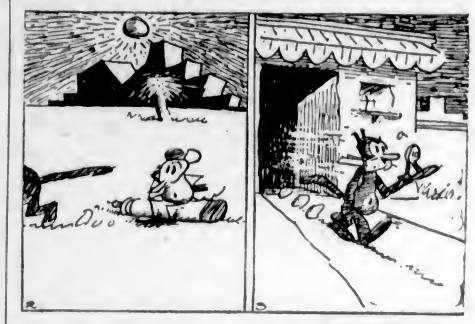

By this time there have been such changes in the structure of the organ that it cannot do its work properly in the body, and needs help.

Of course, as the nature of the causes of the damage to the tissues of the organ become gradually known to the medical profession it will be possible by proper diet, proper living habits, to prevent damage occurring.

In the meantime, it is interesting to know that we are using extracts from the organs of animals to prolong life, even where the damage has occurred.

KRAZY KAT

THE DOT CARTOONIST, BY GEORGE BELL

"You told me Oyster Shell was a good horse. He's just getting in now from yesterday's race." "He is a good horse. I didn't say he was a good race horse. He is a fine horse for pulling a . . . . " (Kindly draw straight lines between the numbers.)

Tommy: "Dad! Dad! There's the burglar!"

Dad (creeping up to bed again): "H-how many times have I-I told you not to point?"

—The London Opinion.

A NINE DAYS' WONDER

"It was a nine days' wonder!" we hear of something that caused a great deal of astonishment and excitement.

The expression is an old one, and the allusion is said to be to the interest and excitement of children in the phenomenon of the nine days' blindness of a newly born kitten.

Chaucer used the expression in his Canterbury Tales, specifically in Troilus and Creseide, Book Four—which takes it back to the fourteenth century.

Back-Seat Driver: "John, be careful. There's a car behind you."

John (patiently): "But, my dear! I've never hit anyone behind me yet."

REPORT ON WORK OF ASSOCIATION

Saltspring Development Matters Dealt With at Quarterly Meeting—Game Committee Named

SALTSPRING, Feb. 22. — The Saltspring Island Development Association held the second quarterly general meeting in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, on Friday. Norman Wilson, who was in the chair, gave a full report of the work done by the board of directors. A considerable amount has been accomplished for the good of the island, which has thoroughly justified the existence of this association.

A Saltspring Island produce stall in the Victoria Public Market is practically assured for the near future.

The question of better mail service for the whole of the island is being worked upon.

A committee was formed, consisting of W. M. Mouat, E. G. Borradaile and W. Y. Stewart, for the purpose of meeting the local sportsmen, to go into the question of conservation of game on the island, as it is considered the game here is fast being depleted on account of the long open seasons, and that measures should be taken to rectify this. Mr. Borradaile reported a number of cock pheasants will again be liberated, on the Island this year. The board of directors, at its next meeting, will take up the question of advertising matter for the island. The next quarterly general meeting will be held at Fulford Harbor in May.

JAMES WATSON LAID TO HIS LAST REST

SALTSPRING, Feb. 22.—The funeral of James Watson, who passed away suddenly at his home, "Woodhill," Saltspring Island, on Tuesday, took place on Thursday. Service was held at the United Church, the Rev. William Allen officiating. The hymns sung were "Oh, Love That Will Not Let Me Go" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Following the service, the remains were conveyed to the Union Cemetery, Central Settlement, where they were laid to rest, the pallbearers being W. E. Scott, N. W. Wilson, Cecil E. Baker, W. M. Mouat, W. A. McAfee and D. C. Collins.

The late Mr. Watson, who was sixty-four years of age, was a native of Elgin, Scotland. He has spent several years in Canada, where he has been trading largely in stock. He was a well-known judge of horses, cattle and sheep in British Columbia, Washington, Portland, Ore., and other parts. For the last six years he has been resident on Saltspring, where he went in for sheep farming. He was a bachelor, and is survived by a niece, Mrs. Wintrup, of Saltspring Island.

Hard Times Party Greatly Enjoyed By Many Dancers

QUALICUM BEACH, Feb. 22.—The hard times whist drive and dance held in the Community Hall was one of the best-attended dances ever held in the hall. There were eighteen tables of whist and more than two hundred on the floor for dancing. Mrs. C. Forster, who was convener, raised donations amounting to forty dollars and goods of all kinds, which were used as prizes or sold.

Supper was served. A six-piece orchestra provided the music. The whist prizes were won by Miss H. Jones, Mrs. Hunt, Mr. Brice and N. Gibson; hard times costume prizes, Mrs. Kinch and G. Parker; statue dance, Mrs. J. Cormack and J. C. Bailey; spot dance, Mrs. R. Whitmee and Carlos Waldie.

E. Waldie acted as master of ceremonies.

PERFORMANCE OF STAR IS PRAISED

Loretta Young Scores New Success With Edward G. Robinson in Capitol Film

Loretta Young, chosen a year ago as the American Venus, has earned a new title, that of "girl Lon Chaney," as a result of her work and make-up in "The Hatchet Man," Edward G. Robinson's latest starring vehicle for First National and Vitaphone pictures, now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Amazed experts applied the new title to her after seeing her as Toya San, ward and wife of "The Hatchet Man." The almond shaped eyes, high cheek bones, jet hair and rosebud mouth of a beautiful Oriental siren have been reproduced perfectly, transforming Loretta into a genuine "lotus blossom."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "Paid," which opened yesterday at the Playhouse Theatre as Joan Crawford's latest talkie, has everything to recommend it in the way of being first rate entertainment. Its story moves along at breakneck speed from its engrossing courtroom scene opening to the dramatic conclusion. Every member of the cast is perfectly suited to his role and the direction of Sam Wood is exceptionally good.

DOMINION THEATRE A splendid array of stage and screen talent was assembled in the making of the new Paramount British Picture, "Man of Mayfair," which is being presented at the Dominion Theatre. The cast, one of unusual excellence, is headed by that famous international star, Jack Buchanan, who plays the part of a titled man about town and who falls in love with a pretty dancer. Complications and humorous situations follow which are rich in comedy and laughs.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Tomorrow evening is the last opportunity to see Lew Ayres in the Universal drama, "Heaven on Earth," which is closing its engagement at the Columbia Theatre. This picture has definitely registered as Lew's best screen effort since "All Quiet on the Western Front," and tells an absorbing story of life on the Mississippi River, with young Ayres cast as the son of a steamboat captain.

EMPIRE THEATRE "Rookery Nook," the British - made talkie which is being distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and is now being shown at the Empire Theatre, is one of the few English dialogue pictures which have received unanimous praise from London newspaper reviewers. Tom Walls, who produced the play, also directed the picture—a joint production of British and Dominion Films Corporation, Ltd., and the Gramophone Company, Ltd.—and acted the part he created.

DEMAND ACTIVE FOR HOME FAIR

One-Third of Space at Armory Taken—Chamber Plans Big Undertaking

One-third of the available space in the Armory for the Home Products' Fair has already been taken, it was announced at the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. This was all the more gratifying, said H. J. Pendray, the chairman of the special committee having this matter in hand, in view of the fact that the drive for space-taking had not really commenced. He joined with R. W. Mayhew, the president of the chamber, in calling upon the members to insure that the undertaking proves a notable success.

A letter was read from the Vancouver Board of Trade, offering the fullest co-operation in the Fair and expressing a readiness on the part of the Vancouver body to do anything it could to assist the local committee.

A letter from N. A. Yarrow conveyed the information that while the firm of Yarrows, Limited, was in hearty sympathy with the move, it was found to be almost impracticable for this firm to make an exhibit. To do so would entail the expense of conveying very heavy machinery from the works to the Armory, which would be more expensive than was warranted.

His firm felt it could do more benefit to the city by the securing of contracts on foreign ships, thus giving employment to local labor. In this connection he referred to the expending of something like $60,000 on repairs to a Norwegian ship, which was spent in the city and which was outside money brought in.

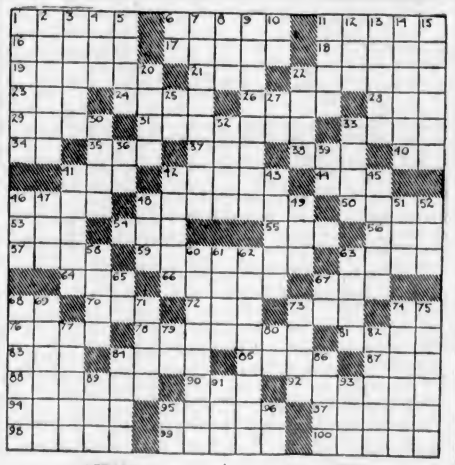

GARDEN CITY BANQUET

A men and boys' banquet, the first of its kind to be held in the Garden City United Church, was given recently, and was well attended. A programme of vocal and elocution numbers was enjoyed, Mr. James acting as chairman. Those taking part in the programme were: Messrs. W. R. Wood, Pargiter, J. Jones, Scrimshaw, Dickson, D. Armstrong and Rev. Thomas Menzies.

STRING QUARTETTE LAUDED BY CRITICS

Following is a quotation from press critics, which appeared in The Brooklyn Daily Eagle on January 15, after the appearance of the Hart House String Quartette there:

"The Brahms Quartette that the Hart House String Quartette chose to play here last night was neither of the two of Opus 51, but the rather less familiar work in B flat (Opus 67). We cite this as our springboard to launch into space, for the opportunity to hear it was the prime feature of the evening. In spirit, we find it distinctly comparable to the last Beethoven work in that form (Opus 135)—for both are on a reduced scale (considering the conceptual habits of their progenitors), and both rejoice in a buoyancy, an aliveness enthralling beyond the raw physical temper of youth, since it is an achieved viewpoint, a maturity that has found as ample and valid a material in laughter as in lamentation.

The Hart House String Quartette will appear at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Tuesday, March 1.

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC FEATURE OF PLAY

The music of Balfe's "Bohemian Girl" has been famous ever since it was first produced in Drury Lane in London in 1843 and in New York the following year. The delightful solo numbers have been whistled and hummed in all lands, and Victoria, being no exception in this case to the general rule, is receiving with much interest the announcement that this lovely work will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings, February 26 and 27 by the Victoria Operatic Society.

"I Dreamed That I Dwelt in Marble Halls" is perhaps the most famous soprano solo of "The Bohemian Girl." It is a beautiful number and in the forthcoming local production Miss Dorothy Parsons, as Arlena, will be heard in it. Miss Parsons is one of the city's promising young singers and already has been heard in other operas produced by the society.

Portugal is considering the establishment of central purchase and sales agencies for sardines, standardisation of all fish sold, and a "closed" season of four months a year.

HIGHLAND RULERS PASSING

Illness of Cluny Macpherson has attracted attention to the fact that the direct line of ancient Highland families of Scotland are dying out. The present Cluny has no direct heir to succeed him in the chieftaincy of the Macphersons. The Mackintosh of Mackintosh's son was killed in the Great War, and with the present chief a very famous line of Highland rulers is nearing an end.
